PARATROOPERS LAND IN KOREA

Over 4,000 In Surprise Landings From Air

Last Resistance In Pyongyang Is Wiped Out

U. N. Occupation Forces Now In Control Of City

By IRVING R. LEVINE
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

SEOUL, Oct. 20. — United Nations forces completed occupation of Pyongyang today and General MacArthur dropped 4,100 American paratroopers along the main escape route for fleeing Reds north of the Communist capital.

UN forces within the capital wiped out the last Communist resistance while some 25 miles to the north the paratroopers seized two vital rail lines snapping shut a trap on an estimated 30,000 Reds in the Pyongyang area.

MacArthur, directing the operation from his personal plane hovering over the paratroopers, confirmed indications that the enemy is on his last legs and said:

'To End Shortly'

"The war is very definitely coming to an end shortly."

With the occupation of Pyongyang and the paratroop operation to the north, U. N. forces took a firm grasp on about three-quarters of the land mass of the Korean peninsula.

Following official announcement of the occupation of Pyongyang, a high American military source reported Communist resistance in the entire battle zone appeared "demoralized."

United Nations warplanes pounded Communist troop columns and truck convoys fleeing north along their only remaining escape route toward Sunchon and the Manchurian border.

Capture 2400 Daily

General MacArthur's Headquarters announced that an average of 2,400 Red troops from disorganized fleeing units have been captured daily during the past two weeks. An official release said United Nations forces have taken more than 75,000 prisoners since the start of the Korean conflict.

Troops of the ROK (Republic of Korea) Sixth Division raced westward toward Sunchon, a road junction 30 miles north of Pyongyang, to cut off the retreating Reds. The

Report 137 U. S. Prisoners Murdered During March

By IRVING R. LEVINE
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

SEOUL, Oct. 20—Rescued American prisoners of war told today of the murder of 137 captured American soldiers by Communist troops on a forced death march from Seoul to Pyongyang.

Three rescued GI's said 387 American prisoners of war were forced to start the march from Seoul but only 250 survived.

The other 137, the freed men said, were sick and wounded men who fell out of line and were shot to death by their guards as they lay suffering on the ground.

The prisoners who survived the 300-mile forced march over winding roads were herded together at the Pyongyang railroad station last Monday for evacuation northward from the Red capital.

It was then the three liberated

U. N. Troops Are Wildly Cheered In Pyongyang

By JOHN RICH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PYONGYANG, Oct. 20.—Wildly cheering citizens of this former North Korean capital greeted victorious United Nations troops today as church bells pealed in the background.

Residents liberated from iron-fisted Red rule waved South Korean, American, British and United Nations flags.

The roars of acclaim could be heard as six allied correspondents made their way across a partially blasted bridge.

Enemy resistance in Pyongyang was quickly wiped out. Trenches and street barricades were unmanned when the allied troops marched in. Buildings along the broad paved streets of the modern section of the city bore few scars of bombings.

The Communist troops, who fought street by street in Seoul, left their own headquarters relatively intact.

The six correspondents made their way into the city in a commandeered Russian-built jeep and were greeted by enthusiastic welcomers.

In the midst of this gay scene one handcuffed North Korean colonel strode under guard in the middle of a broad avenue guiding South Korean staff officers to

President, Community Chest

It's Community Chest time. Let us consider what would happen if the New Castle and vicinity Community Chest suddenly ceased to exist. What would happen? The individual agencies, all 12 of them, would need to campaign for funds. People would be approached ceaselessly for contributions. Agencies would compete with each other for manpower. Volunteer workers would soon tire of being asked to work in campaign after campaign. The cost of raising money would skyrocket.

No one wants that to happen. Let's all get together and give enough to put the Community Chest over the top.

President To Given Program On World Peace

Preparing To Make "Peace Talk" Before U. N. Session Teusday

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—President Truman is preparing today a "peace talk" to tell the United Nations, including Russia and its Red satellites, just how the world organization can eliminate war from the face of the earth.

The president talks to the General Assembly of the United Nations next Tuesday.

Mr. Truman already has warned Russia that the United States will support the United Nations with force of arms to put down aggression anywhere in the world. He gave that warning at San Francisco after returning from his historic conference with General Douglas MacArthur on Wake Island.

Direct Program

The president is ready to present a direct program for peace. He is prepared to discuss the problems of Red China, Korea and Formosa before the United Nations.

The president proposes to tell Red China and Russia that Formosa must be free from the threat of aggression—just as the United Nations voted that Korea must be cleansed of Red aggression. Mr. Truman has no desire to impose an American protectorate over Formosa but he does insist that the United Nations guarantee the island against Red invasion.

The president will go to Flushing Meadows in a stronger position than ever in the past. He now has reached a complete accord with General MacArthur on matters affecting Japan, Korea, Red China, Formosa, Russia and the whole Far East.

No North Korean 'Bigwigs' Taken

PYONGYANG, Oct. 20.—(INS)—During a brief stop at Pyongyang today General MacArthur asked if American forces had captured any Communist "bigwigs" in their occupation of the Red capital.

Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, Eighth Army commander, replied: "No sir, not that I know of."

MacArthur inquired specifically about North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung who reportedly has fled north into Manchuria and Walker said:

"We have his place but he's gone."

General MacArthur told Walker to use Republic of Korea troops in mopping up operations north of Pyongyang and to "drive them as fast as you can go get them there."

WHERE PARATROOPERS LANDED IN KOREA

—Acme Telephoto

KOREA—More than 4,000 U. S. paratroopers jumped at Sukchon and Sunchon to cut off escape routes for some 27,000 Reds being driven out of their capital, Pyongyang. General MacArthur watched from the air as the paratroopers, flown from Kimpo airfield, landed almost unopposed about 26 miles north of Pyongyang. UN forces continued their mop-up of Pyongyang. Far up the east coast, the ROK Capitol Division drove into Hongwon, despite orders to "slow down". Maior General Almond's 1st Corps set up headquarters at Wonsan to build up North Korean defenses against any possible attack from Red Manchuria. Unconfirmed reports said the Korean Red government has moved to Huichon (Communist flag), 83 miles northeast of Pyongyang.

Russia Accepts Place On U. N. "Peace Patrol"

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Russia on Thursday accepted an invitation by seven western nations to participate in a 14-member U. N. "peace patrol" commission created under the American-drafted plan for smashing aggression anywhere in the world.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, departing from the previous Russian policy of boycotting undesirable situations at the U. N.

He gave the nod when the seven sponsors of the anti-aggression "united action for peace" resolution telephoned him an invitation after a two-hour private consultation.

All of the big five powers were put on the "peace patrol" plus one Soviet satellite—reportedly Czechoslovakia.

Vishinsky Asks For Endorsement Of Stockholm Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky will ask the UN today to endorse the Stockholm peace appeal and declare any nation which first uses the atom bomb an aggressor.

The 60-nation political committee is ready to start debate during the day on the Soviet-drafted peace plan which proposes also that the Big Five powers join in a pact for "strengthening" peace. The committee overwhelmingly approved yesterday the Acheson plan for halting aggression through collective UN action.

Paratroopers To Cut Off Escape Of Fleeing Reds

Landings Made North Of Pyongyang By Troops In Mass Jump

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

WITH GENERAL MacARTHUR OVER NORTH KOREA, Oct. 20.—More than 4,000 American paratroopers jumped to earth north of Pyongyang today under the personal direction from the air of General MacArthur in a move to cut off fleeing Red forces.

MacArthur dropped combat-tested paratroopers on two key communications centers 20 miles north of Pyongyang and after watching the drop said triumphantly:

"The war is very definitely coming to an end shortly."

Swarms of paratroopers floated to earth from a 3,000-foot altitude as MacArthur kept a careful eye on the entire operation.

MacArthur hovered over the drop area in his personal plane "Scap" to direct the first paratroop operation of the Korean war.

Cut Off 30,000 Korean Troops

An American spokesman estimated that possibly 30,000 Red troops in the general area of Pyongyang were cut off by the move.

The battle-hardened 187th Regiment of the 11th Airborne Division—a famed unit in World War Two—made the drop. About 4,100 paratroopers, well seasoned by ground fighting earlier in the Korean war, were dropped fully equipped for infantry action.

Their twin goals were two rail lines which they seized at points 25 miles north of Pyangyang, North Korean capital now in United Nations hands.

MacArthur returned to Tokyo after the operation but en route ordered his pilot Lt. Col. Anthony Story of St. Louis, Mo., to land at a concrete Poyngyang airstrip which became operational for American planes only a few hours earlier.

While still in the air watching the paratroopers make their way

Cut Ordered In Civilian Use Of Rubber

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—(INS)—The government today ordered a 16 to 37 per cent cut in the civilian use of rubber in an effort to build up a defense stockpile of the material in the shortest possible time.

The National Production Authority ordered the slash, noting that rubber in the U.S. was being used at an all-time record annual rate of 1,308,000 tons in September.

NPA Administrator William H. Harrison said the order replaces initial restrictions imposed on rubber manufacturers August 25 which proved to be somewhat ineffective.

It seems there's several kinds of trout that swim the nation's streams, and any one, or so they say, fulfills a sportsman's dreams. There's brook trout for the early spring, a tasty dish I'm told, and speckled trout, rainbow trout with marks of red and gold. And for the fall when days are chill, and winter starts to creep, there's lake trout up in Canada, down in the water, deep. You nearly freeze as there you sit, with pole and line, but say, those trout are big ones you will find, it's 60 today.

Stassen Has No Comment

Silent On Soviet Press Rejection Of Visit To Stalin

READING, Pa., Oct. 20—(INS)—Harold E. Stassen flatly refused to comment today on the Soviet press rejection of his proposed "peace visit" with Premier Marshal Stalin in Moscow.

The former Minnesota governor offered a copy of a Moscow story in which the Soviet press called Stassen's proposal a "clumsy election maneuver," said merely that "It is very interesting."

Stassen, now president of the University of Pennsylvania, said that the story given him by a newsman to read was the first he knew of the Moscow newspaper articles.

"I will make no comment," Stassen said, "until I have had ample opportunity to read the report."

The Moscow newspapers, in articles presumably reflecting the opinions of Marshal Stalin, turned down Stassen's request for "correspondence or further conferences" with the Soviet leader on a fresh approach to world peace.

Stassen was in Reading to attend an educational conference.

REPORT 137 U. S. PRISONERS MURDERED DURING MARCH

men made their escape by ducking under a truck and hiding until dark.

The three rescued men who told of the horrors and deaths on the long march are:

Cpl. Leonard B. Seat, Paterson, Ga., and Pvt. John Catching, Saginaw Mich., both of the 24th Infantry Division and Pvt. Clayton Edwards of Council Grove, Kan., of the U. S. First Marines.

They managed to hide out until rescued by South Korean troops when Pyongyang fell.

The rescued men described themselves as possible the strongest of the surviving prisoners.

Their comrades, they said, were emaciated and haggard from filth, disease and weariness at the end of the brutal march.

In Pyongyang, however, the liberated trio said, the prisoners were well treated but food was scarce.

Because they had retained some of their strength, Edwards and Catching were forced to take bodies of dead prisoners to the Pyongyang Christian cemetery for burial.

Seat said he was captured near Chinju August 6, where Catching also was held. They marched with other prisoners in easy stages from Chinju to Seoul.

Edwards was taken prisoner near Seoul September 20.

They said the bitter horror-filled march from Seoul to Pyongyang was ordered by their Red captors when liberation of Seoul became imminent.

PARATROOPERS TO CUT OFF ESCAPE OF FLEEING REDS

through rice paddies north of Pyongyang MacArthur remarked with satisfaction:

Should End Resistance

"It looks like we closed the trap. With the closing of that trap that should be an end to all organized resistance."

On the ground at the Pyongyang airstrip MacArthur embraced Lt. Gen. Walter H. Walker, Eighth Army commander, and told him to use Republic of Korea forces rather than American ground troops now in the Red capital to help trap North Korean forces.

The paratroop regiment was carried over the drop area in 80 Fairchild C-119 "flying boxcars." After the troops were dropped the planes immediately returned to Kimpo airfield near Seoul to pick up artillery pieces, trucks, jeeps and other heavy equipment which was parachuted down in a second wave.

The flying boxcars left Japan at 4 p. m. Thursday (2 a. m. EST Thursday) for Kimpo where the crewmen slept in the planes overnight awaiting the take off.

Circles Over Area

MacArthur's plane with a small group of advisers and five news correspondents aboard circled the drop area for a full hour from 2 p. m. (12 midnight EST Thurs.) until 3 o'clock.

The pilot jockeyed the big constellation around to keep most of the operation in view from the left side of the plane where MacArthur was sitting, smoking a white Meerschaum pipe as he gazed intently out the small window.

We could see the paratroopers standing upright after they landed and forming square patterns in the open mine fields. This seemingly old-fashioned maneuver was necessary to speed the assembly of each unit for effective action against rail lines at Sunchon and Sukchon which lie 16 miles apart.

Smoke signals which looked like explosions marked command posts which were set up by the paratroopers wherever company or battalion commanders happened to land.

The paratroopers were already moving along a road to join forces before MacArthur left the area.

On Lookout For U. S. Prisoners

In addition to the railroads the paratroopers were ordered to take possession of a dam on a large lake in the hills near Sukchon and to patrol all roads with the aim of capturing communists including those MacArthur described as "bigwigs".

The paratroopers were also on the lookout for American and South Korean war prisoners.

It was obvious from MacArthur's plane that the paratroopers encountered no immediate opposition. Swarms of fighter-bombers from two squadrons had given the area a 45-minute going over with bombs and rockets before the jump.

MacArthur commented:

"It looked perfect to me. I did not see any evidence of opposition. It looked like it was a complete surprise to them."

When MacArthur stopped off at Pyongyang he was awarded the distinguished flying cross.

To Seal Escape Routes

MacArthur left Tokyo at 3:40 a. m. to watch the big "show" and landed at Pusan on the southeastern tip of Korea. He sat in the plane without alighting for almost four hours because poor flying weather caused postponement of "H" hour.

General MacArthur declared that the objective of the move is to seal escape routes to the north. One group of paratroopers dropped on flat land near Sukchon 25 miles due north of Pyongyang and 12 miles due south of Sinanju.

Another group was dropped near Sunchon, 16 miles east of Sukchon.

MacArthur, explaining his reasons for the airborne operation said he ise determined to prevent any Red bigwigs from escaping into Manchuria and directing guerrilla warfare against UN forces in Korea from there.

The supreme United Nations commander expressed confidence that the Reds do not have much military power north of Pyongyang at the present moment. He said, however, that without the mass jump, the communists might have had the opportunity to regroup for another stand in three or four days.

MacArthur's latest stroke exemplifies his ability to utilize every weapon and technique which Americans have developed. It symbolized one of his greatest victories—for on October 20 six years ago he made good his pledge to return to the Philippines.

RUSSIA ACCEPTS PLACE ON U. N. "PEACE PATROL"

Korea or Indonesia. By joining the "peace patrol", Russia also grants implied recognition to the "little assembly" after boycotting it since its existence.

High significance also was attached by western group to the fact that Russian participation in the "peace patrol" will facilitate the work of such U. N. teams in their efforts to establish the facts of a reported aggression or breach of the peace. There is no veto on the commission and a majority vote decides any dispute.

It is pointed out at Lake Success that it would be difficult for Russia to refuse access to a U. N. investigation team on which a Russian is serving.

Although Vishinsky has stipulated that communist China should be named on the "peace patrol" commission, he made no such conditions in accepting the invitation.

The seven sponsors of the "united action for peace" resolution did not invite Russia to join the collective measures commission which is charged with studying the use of armed troops for which the assembly can call to serve in case of aggression.

LAST RESISTANCE IN PYONGYANG IS WIPED OUT

Roks were reported to have reached a point only 16 miles from Sunchon by late afternoon Friday.

On the east coast the ROK Capital Division mashed forward to Hongwon, 30 miles north of the industrial center of Hamhung.

U. S. 24th Division troops cut the road between Pyongyang and its port of Chinnampo, 24 miles to the south east on the Yellow Sea, in a general movement designed to compress remaining Red forces into the northern quarter of Korea.

Collapse of Resistance

Maj. Gen. E. M. Almond who led the U. S. First Marine Division and the Army's Seventh Infantry Division in the Inchon landings September 15 arrived at Wonsan on the east coast. His presence there was not immediately explained and the army did not disclose whether or not any sizeable force of troops accompanied him.

The general collapse of Communist resistance was reflected most pointedly at Pyongyang, 3,200-year old Korean City from which Red Premier Kim Il Sung and other Communist leaders directed the invasion of South Korea beginning June 25.

Kim Il Sung was reported to have fled into Manchuria. The South Korean radio at Pusan said he was believed planning to make his headquarters at Tunkhwa, center of a large colony of Korean emigrants.

A U. S. First Corps spokesman announced that Pyongyang was "secured" about 10 o'clock Friday morning (8 p.m. EST Thursday) and an hour later South Korean Army Chief of Staff Maj. Gen. Chung Il Kwang officially announced occupation of the Red capital.

An anticipated "death stand" of Communists at Pyongyang failed to materialize. The U. S. First Cavalry—first into Manila and first into Tokyo during World War II—swept into the city Thursday morning.

buildings which the Reds used as headquarters.

Blowing up of the Taedong highway bridge by the North Korean troops shortly after noon Thursday thwarted plans fo an armored thrust to Sukchon and Sunchon to headoff the retreating Reds and possiby effect the release of allied prisoners of war.

U. N. GROUP TO START DEBATE ON "PEACE PLAN"

Benegal Rau of India, Padilla Nervo of Mexico or Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines.

Vishinsky was dinner host to Romulo last night and strove hard to convince the Philippine Foreign Minsiter that he should announce himself as candidate for Lie's post.

The Vishinsky peace proposal calls for assembly endorsement of the Stockholm appeal, a Communist-inspired demand that the first nation to use atomic weapons be branded an aggressor. It also says that "the use of the atomic weapon shall be unconditionally prohibited and that a strict system of international control shall be instituted to ensure the exact and unconditional observance of this prohibition."

However, the Soviet proposal makes no mention of an airtight system of inspection, which the West insists is necessary.

CUT ORDERED IN CIVILIAN USE OF RUBBER

tinues some provisions including those requiring that certain amounts of synthetic rubber be used in the manufacture of tires.

Rubber is the first major commodity to meet sharp civilian curtailment under the administration's rapidly moving defense program. Indications are that a long series of further cutbacks will be ordered on other vital materials to provide for the long-range rearmament plans.

The new order only applies during November and December of this year. Government officials will take another look at inventories with current plans to limit the amount of rubber used in specific products if the supply situation appears dim at that time.

WHEN I DO NOT GO TO CHURCH
I say to all this world that I am not concerned about spiritual things.
I says that, if there be a God, I am not greatly exercised about knowing Him. I say that he was wrong who wrote, "The things that are seen are temporal, the things that are not seen are eternal."
I say I am not concerned for the upward progress of humanity. I say I do not choose to assume any responsibility for the moral tone of my community. I say I have no sense of indebtedness to God and certainly a very limited consciousness of responsibility for my fellow man.

NAVAL READINESS

Ever since the late, lamented statements which implied that licking Russia before breakfast would be a cinch, the populace has instinctively ducked when someone high up says the country is "ready" for this or that.

Navy Secretary Matthews has just put himself out on the limb by saying, during a television interview, that the blue water service is primed and cocked. This is worth looking into.

Being "ready" takes in a great deal of territory and requires elaboration. Mr. Matthews obliged by saying that advances are being made in anti-submarine warfare that will rob enemy submersibles of the advantage they enjoy over certain surface vessels. This is a hint that something better than present means of detecting and tracking submarines may have been discovered.

To date the rate of increase in effectiveness of postwar submarines has greatly outstripped the best counter-measures it has been possible to evolve. That the Navy may have developed better sub catching and killing methods isn't cause for too great astonishment, however. This problem has been given top priority since the war.

The bulk of Secretary Matthews' generalizations can be backed with known facts. The Pacific fleet is being reinforced at a rapid rate, and there seems to be no limit to the numerical strength in ships and men that the Navy intends to send afloat over the next few years.

On the basis of the carrier strikes on the Korean peninsula and the precision work displayed during the amphibious lift to the Inchon beaches it appears that the Navy is taut and hasn't forgotten any of the old plays.

As for the statement that the Navy is "ready for anything" in the Pacific, it can only be hoped that it is not an exaggeration.

END IS NEAR IN KOREAN WAR

With United Nations troops in Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, there is a growing belief in Tokyo military circles that the end of fighting in Korea could come in a few weeks. But a long mopping up period may follow.

It has been clear for days that organized resistance could not go on much longer. A prolonged, last-ditch stand by the Communists at Pyongyang was not in the cards.

Some Red soldiers are reported to be retreating northward toward the border. But they will find safety only if they cross it, for they will be pursued. The possibility remains that some survivors will take to the mountains and carry on the war as guerillas. This is a danger that has been heavily stressed because the Communists apparently can count on using Chinese territory as a base of operations. Indications are, however, that this danger has been exaggerated.

Guerilla warfare can be effective against a feeble government, particularly a foreign government. But partisans need more than a base. They must also have the connivance of the civilian population. It is doubtful that the Communists can count on civilian cooperation in Korea.

Furthermore, they will not have weak detachments of foreign troops to deal with. The victors are strong now and will hand over the task, in time, to strong Korean forces.

'MR. BASEBALL' QUITS

Commenting on the relinquishing of managership of the Philadelphia Athletics by Connie Mack, after a half century of service, The Philadelphia Inquirer, of his "home town," gives expression to the following:

It had to happen some day, of course, yet it comes hard to think of the Philadelphia Athletics without Connie Mack. The two have been virtually synonymous for a half-century and Mr. Mack's position as manager has seemed one of those immutable things that go on year after year, as traditionally a part of Philadelphia as William Penn's statue atop City Hall.

There had been rumors every so often that the grand old man of baseball, now nearing 88, would relinquish his scorecard and climb out of the dugout at last, but it was Connie himself who was the first to scotch such reports. Just recently he repeated an assertion, first made two decades ago, that he would never quit so long as he was capable of performing his duties.

But he has decided, now, to retire, and the reins of the A's managership falls into the hands of Jimmy Dykes, who is not unknown to Shibe Park fans. From the vantage point of his retirement Cornelius McGillicuddy will be able to look back upon a baseball career that is nothing short of fabulous, one that turned out under his direction nine American League pennant-winners and five World Champions.

The old master has done much for Philadelphia and for the game. He takes with him as he leaves the active command of his beloved Athletics the deep affection of thousands to whom he will be forever "Mr. Baseball." That waving scorecard will be missed.

As far as football coaches are concerned, Upset Saturday is always followed by Aspirin Sunday.

It doesn't take a numerologist to prove to a North Korean Red how unlucky the number 38 can be—for him.

Most family fights, we read, start before dinner. What about the endless argument over who is to do the dishes?

A scientist is checking the speed of a Greenland glacier. This may be a more important game than Britain's sport of snail watching, but not nearly as comfortable.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Korea To Present Strange Problem

One of the strangest problems ever to confront the world began to shape up today with steady collapse of North Korean resistance and firm indications that before much time has passed the peninsula will be liberated from Communism.

The problem is simply this: When the United Nations have won the war in Korea, what will they do with it?

There are proposals for free elections and unification of North and South Korea under Democratic rule.

Still A Defeated Nation

But the fact remains that Korea will still be a defeated nation, plagued with all the suffering that goes with a lost war. And there is no precedent or rule of thumb to govern the nation's future in the world family.

When Germany and Italy were defeated in the second world war, the problem was a comparatively simple one.

It was necessary to judge the degree of collective national guilt. In the case of Italy, the decision was a favorable one, and a peace treaty was signed.

Far more onerous was the punishment given to Germany. No treaty has yet been signed or even drafted; military occupation is in force and over that country hangs the spectre of reparations and a controlled economy that promises to last as far ahead as anyone can foresee.

Essential Difference?

The essential difference in the case of Korea, of course, is that the United Nations undertaking was not war in the usually accepted sense of the term.

The victorious battles fought by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his allied, infantry forces, tank men and fliers has been scrupulously defined as a "police action."

World Communism has been blamed as the aggressor.

But there is no apparent disposition to make the Kremlin, center of that Communism, make any payment for damages done.

There will be an attempt to single out war criminals, particularly military commanders and local civilian officials held responsible for atrocities.

But there will be no way of knowing how many North Koreans —or South Koreans, for that matter—were registered Communists and thus to some extent at least blameworthy for creating a situation that spilled over into outright aggression on June 25.

In the case of Germany, the people at large were held responsible for permitting a man like Adolph Hitler to reach the pinnacle of power and then plunge his nation and the world into war.

To Aid Rehabitation

But there is no move afoot to brand any large segment of the Korean populace as aggressors. As a matter of fact, President Truman in his San Francisco speech pledged the United States to aid in Korean rehabilitation.

Without using just those words, President Truman made it amply clear that the United States and presumably the United Nations look upon the Korean war as a military undertaking without a parallel.

Of great importance, was his emphasis upon the American desire to understand Korea's own problems, political as well as military and the lack of any intention to impose even benign American Democracy upon the Korean people unless they want it.

The president clearly was thinking of Indo-China, Burma, Malaya and other parts of the Far Eastern world either vexed by militant Communism or even menaced by it.

It was the first time that an American chief executive had enunciated with such clarity the utter American abhorrence to a system of colonialism.

Elluminating Example

The example of Korea can be an illuminating one for the entire Orient not only by demonstrating the ravages of war but in proving determination of the United Nations to allow every people to live in their own way.

Soviet Russia has made much propaganda capital out of its accusations of "American Imperialism."

Mr. Truman has answered this by saying that while it was necessary for Communist Korea to be beaten to its knees, the world is now preparing to lend a helping hand. To do this and still maintain Korean independence will be far from an easy task. It probably is the most challenging one that the U.N. yet has had to face.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TEACH COURTESY TO SERVANTS

Relatively few mothers have a full-time person to do the housework and help care for the children. Nearly all mothers, however, have some help if only an occasional baby sitter.

More women would be available for housework in homes where there are children if they were treated more often as persons with the respect they deserve, by the mother and children.

Attitude of Child

The attitude of a child two, six, nine or 16 toward a person who helps about the house full-time or part-time, depends first of all on the attitude of the mother revealed by the way she acts toward this person or speaks to her or refers to her in her absence; on the way, moreover, this child has learned to wait on himself, take care of his own things, and to respect the rights of the other members of the family. Yet the child over six, who has been pretty self-sufficient may soon expect a "maid" to wait on him and may cause her all sorts of inconvenience and unnecessary work. Besides, he may speak discourteously to her.

In addition to the consequent injustice to the helping person is the moral harm to the child from such attitudes and ways of his. Our first interest being his best moral growth, we parents need to give this matter our serious consideration. Let us, therefore, watch our ways toward all persons who serve us—the garbageman, milkman, postman, clerk at the store, waitress at the restaurant, as well as toward the persons who do work for us in the home. Do we always treat them as real persons, just as we ourselves would like to be treated in their places?

Own Attitude

Not only should we set good example in our own attitude toward them but we also should rebuke or restrain our children when they are discourteous to helpers, and heartily approve our children for their graciousness to these helpers. Incidentally, it is generally growing easier for us to respect all such helpers as their earnings often equal or exceed our own. Indeed, their rise in wages in recent decades has been a mighty force for promoting personal justice and dignity of all workers.

Parents who discipline their young children well, prepare these children to cooperate with the baby sitter and to respect her as a person. As you know, I have urged parents to train the tot needing restraint to profit from chair-sitting punishment. In case he is, the mother can pretty safely inform the baby sitter in the youngster's presence that she may resort to this measure of control if she considers it necessary. See, too, what resources available to the baby sitter if the tot has learned to enjoy creative fun with toys and being read to. (My bulletin, "Books from which To Read to the Baby and Young Child" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan

It was never made clear whether that New York cop who got a television set from a gambler was being bribed to stay out of horse parlors or stay out of his own parlor

All I know is that ever since we got our set, three people have been sitting in the corner reviewing programs in Esperanto and occasionally sending out for hot sandwiches.

The coaxial cable still hasn't reached into every corner of the country and there still is time for a last ditch stand for private property—meaning "admission by invitation only and we don't plan any."

But to get back to that police gambling investigation... It's a reflection on many fine men, some of whom haven't even got their sets yet.

This new Police Commissioner Murphy is receptive... He has the mustache of a bartender but he is acting like a bouncer.

The cop on my block is so agitated he put his retirement papers under a windshield wiper yesterday and turned in a parking tag to the pension board.

From Me To You

By MESEEALL

This week sure has been a full week . . . celebrations all over the place . . . In addition to being Pennsylvania Week, Oil Week . . . we find that the business women are calling this National Business Women's Week.

New Castle has a chapter of Business and Professional Women's club . . . and they are very active . . . doing great work in this community, much of which can't be publicized due to the fact that when an organization does work among the needy . . . no one likes to embarrass people who are having a streak of bad luck.

Harry Truman of course got his two cents worth in . . . and said "I know that the members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs wish to be judged on the basis of competence in doing their jobs . . . they do not wish to be the objects of adverse discrimination nor the subjects of special favoritism because of their sex."

Mr. Truman must of had some one write those words for him . . . and they did a fine job for it explains exactly how the ladies in business offices and professional jobs feel . . . the motto for this special week, as chosen by the clubs is "Measure Up For Full Partnership" . . . Mr. Truman went on to say that all of the successful men and women he knew had set their goals high and worked hard toward those goals . . . and that successful people know that creative imagination helps a lot . . . Well, Mr. Truman should know about imagination . . . He used it when he wrote about the Marine Corps.

We are happy here in New Castle to pay tribute to the members of the local chapter of the Business and Professional Women's club . . . you have done a fine job for the community and we hope that your future will be just as bright and that each of you enjoy the successes that is each individuals dream.

Concepts Of Life In India

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 20.—As westerners sometimes fail to realize, the ideas in some men's minds and the concepts they hold of life and death are as important as bullets and bread. This applies with special force here in India where the complexities of religions and philosophies escape the minds of most western observers.

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru showed me at least eight portraits, photographs and sketches of the late Mahatma Gandhi in rooms of the prime minister's official residence here. Each one shows the little saint, dead only two years, in one aspect or another. Yet each, according to Nehru, failed to catch the spirit of the leader who united the Indian people as no one had for centuries. How deep his hold still is on the great mass of Indian people no one can say. But there is no question of the influence of his non-violence philosophy on the men and women directing this greatest experiment in democracy in Asia.

Reason For Influence

Nehru explains that the Gandhi hold on the people is partly due to the way in which he appealed to the Indian character with his love of renunciation. That character in many respects, is feminine and therefore, shrinks from aggression. Gandhi also appealed to the Indian belief in raising all levels of Indian life by Indian means—the spinning wheel and the puritanical simplicity of living that rejects dependence on western machines. In a long exposition of the beliefs of his beloved saint, Nehru told me he thought Gandhi's deepest conviction was that bad means can never justify good ends; that if bad means are used, good ends can never be achieved.

This influence of Gandhi helps to explain the doubts of the western use of military force to put down aggression. It also explains the rejection of communist techniques which are based on the belief that any means is justifiable to attain the ends of the theoretically perfect state.

Need Generation of Peace

On the practical level the conviction is deep in the minds of all the leaders in the Indian government that a generation of peace is necessary to reconstruct the land torn and broken by partition, communal riots and the presence in India of eight million refugees from Pakistan. This is the major reason for India's policy of supercaution in the United Nations. Already soaring commoditiy prices as a result of the Korean war and rearmament have had an unhappy effect on India's deteriorating economy.

But just how India shall be reconstructed is a matter of dispute arising partly out of the heritage of Gandhi-ism. Nehru never made any secret of his distrust of Gandhi's advocacy of the reliance on handicraft and cottage industries and the Mahatma's rejection of modern medicine and technology. Nehru wants to use western methods to build India a standard of living above the dire subsistence that always is lapsing into starvation, as it is today.

On the Other Hand

On the other hand is a leader like Purushottamdas Tandon, just elected head of the all-powerful Congress party. Tandon is represented as an opponent of Nehru but this is only partly true. He is an ardent apostle of the simple life on the side of Gandhi-ism. For example, Tandon rejects modern medicine, including the use of vaccines. He never cuts his beard or hair.

In a talk I had with Tandon he compared his convictions to those of the Sinn Fein in Ireland. He would replace English as the official language with Hindu as quickly as possible, pointing to the extensive literature in Hindu and in the parent language, Sanskrit, which antedates by many centuries the earliest English literature.

Before the recent party congress Nehru carried the day for his policies in a moving speech and now both men say they will be able to work together. But it is to peace that Nehru always returns in his conversation. This theme is paramount with him, which surprises his visitors, including Senator Claude Pepper who tried unsuccessfully to draw Nehru out on his beliefs regarding the need for help from the United States.

Conquest Feeds On Conquest

Nehru talks of conquest feeding on conquest. He points to the supreme necessity of knowing what to do with victory before it is won. Without such knowledge, victory in Nehru's view, may be empty or worse than empty.

In his gentle, curiously moving voice he read a quotation from his own book, "The Discovery of India". The quotation is from a stone inscription left behind by Ashoka, an Indian conqueror of the third century, B. C., who, according to Nehru was the only conqueror who knew when to stop. After a victory costing him 300,000 lives Ashoka reported and sought thenceforward the conquest of men's hearts. Nehru read the conclusion of the inscription: "For his sacred majesty desired that all animate beings should have the security of self-control, peace of mind and joyousness." This may sound like a hopelessly naive ideal in the present-day world. But, nevertheless, it probably sums up what is in the heart of the man at the head of a nation of 350 millions.

Just Folks

UNDER THE HOOD

I never lift the motor's hood.
I would be shamming if I should.
For though I looked an hour or so
Just what was wrong I'd never know.
The shocking fact is I am blind
To flaws mechanics quickly find.

My grandsire would have understood
The mysteries beneath the hood;
The wires, the gears, the plugs, the rings;
And all these other curious things
The least of which must do its part
Before that car of mine will start.

But when he died I learned that he
Had not bequeathed his skill to me.
His will did not contain a line
To make his gathered wisdom mine,
So helplessly I stand and stare
At what with promptness he'd repair.

Perhaps it's just as well, but, oh!
There is so much I'd like to know;
So much from day to day I see
Which like mechanics baffles me
And often wish I understood
Concealed by life beneath a hood.

Bible Thought

Above five hundred saw the risen Christ at one time. In all history there is no event more surely established. Plato and a host of great thinkers reasoned themselves into this belief in immortality, but the Son of God proved it beyond doubt. If a man die shall he live again?—Job 14:14.

A Day In Court

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—John Van Buren, son of the eighth U. S. President, used to tell a yarn to illustrate how his father was overwhelmed by the most massive problem of that day—the abolition of slavery. It seems that John came upon an overturned haywagon where a young farmer was frantically throwing aside the hay.

"What's the matter?" asked John.

"Stranger," said the farmer, "Dad's under there."

Substitute Uncle Sam for Dad, switch slavery abolition to Communist control, and you have a pretty fair picture of the up-ended haywagon in front of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Whole Trouble Is Suggested

Armed with legal pitchforks, the nine Justices are tossing hay for all they're worth to give Uncle some breathing space and later to extricate him from the legislative fodder which is good enough for bestial use but very indigestible for human consumption. The whole trouble is that 17 years after recognizing Communist Russia, the U. S. hasn't yet built the right rat-trap to catch and punish Commies. Maybe we're being impatient. After all, it was over 200 years between the time we starting importing African slaves till the time we abolished the hateful system.

Anyhow, last week the Supreme Court's whispering gallery of a courtroom, equipped for the first time with loudspeakers, became a scene of almost raucous commotion. The Justice Department had its best lawyers there to prove that the President's Loyalty Review Board is a good Commie-catching institution.

Tough One To Prove

That proposition is—and will always be—a tough one to prove. In preparation for a magazine article, to ppear in January, I spent much time delving into the workings of the Board and interviewing its personnel. Along with an industrious collaborator, Joseph Slevin, of the "N. Y. Journal of Commerce," I was allowed to read the reports on the closed-session hearing of Dorothy Bailey, William Remington an dothers. I came away with no fixed opinion as to the guilt of these parties. The hearings simply set one person's word against another's. In every instance the accused person wehemently proclaimed his undying loyalty. In every instance there were witnesses, usually absentee and anonymous, who gave contrary testimony. But in no instance was there any alleged act—just an alleged state of mind—pertaining to disloyalty or treason.

What Stumps Court

And that, sweeping away all legal verbiage, is what stumps the Supreme Court. Nobody with good sense upholds the right of disloyal persons to hold a Federal job. But nobody with equal good sense wants to see innocent Americans railroaded into a life of dishonor and public disgrace.

By great good fortune the man at the head of the Loyalty Review Board, Seth W. Richardson, is keenly aware of this ethical dilemma. Richardson is a ferocious Roosevelt-hater, Red-baiter and anti-Tru Dealer. A life-long Republican, an unreconstructed isolationist, he loathes everything that's a few inches to the left of Herbert Hoover, under whom he served as assistant Attorney General. Only a sense of patriotic duty persuaded Richardson to take the post of Loyalty Review Board chairman. He wanted to help get Communists out of the government. But he also wanted to help make sure that innocent persons were not railroaded. With the crystal-like candor that makes him a unique character, Richardson told Slevin and me that many borderline cases before his Board might just as well be decided by rolling dice.

Long Way From Success

But what a proposition to set before the U. S. Supreme Court! What a long way we are from having a really effective Communist-catcher, other than Old Reliable, the F. B. I. Nor does the lately-passed McCarran anti-subversive bill offer much hope. The suspicion here is that Trumanite Senators tossed monkey wrenches into the works to insure that the bill will be declared unconstitutional when it reaches the Supreme Court. Be that as it may, the McCurran bill is already behaving like a run-away threshing machine, grinding out more chaff than pure grain.

This massive problem, like the slavery question which bedevilled the nation for so long, still cries out for sane thinking and clean-cut action. It will be argued that we should make the best of the anti-Commie apparatus at hand. But this is lazy logic. If we become satisfied with half-good measures, that's all we'll ever get. And we need something much better than that.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

In nightclub press agent, government and certain other circles there is a class of people called "VIP."

Translated into decoded language, "VIP" means "very important person."

The "VIP"s get the best of everything. They get the best seats in the night clubs, they get accommodations on airplanes and drawing rooms on trains when nobody else can get them, and they have entree to Washington bigwigs whom the average person can seldom see.

All this sounds very enticing, of course, and lots of people I know eat their hearts and brains out to become "VIP"s.

Perhaps you, too, would like to be one. Perhaps you, too, would like to be bowed to by haughty headwaiters, to be able to pass through police lines, perhaps even get a motorcycle escort when you go to a banquet or to the theatre.

Forget it.

This business of being a "VIP" isn't half as nice as it sounds.

The best criterion of whether you have the qualifications for a "VIP" is this:

What can those who consider you a "VIP" GET OUT OF YOU?

To be a successful "VIP" you must not only be able to reciprocate for whatever honors are bestowed upon you but you live in constant fear of descending from the status of "VIP" to that of "Has-been."

And you may rest assured that the next step after "VIP" IS that of "Has-been."

A couple of weeks ago I watched the Joe Louis-Ezzard Charles fight on television.

(Incidentally, television is a brutally frank medium. On it you can see people laugh with their mouths, but not with their eyes.)

There was, of course, no laughing of any kind in Louis's face.

But when I saw that tired, dejected, conquered look in those dog-true eyes of his, I felt like weeping for the man who had been the outstanding "VIP" in his profession and, by a few punches, had become a "Has-been."

At the end of the fight all the sycophants who had flattered and cozened him, all the courtiers and the courtesans of his entourage now turned their faces toward the new hero—the new "VIP"—and left poor Joe to slink into what may soon be oblivion.

Don't worry about being a "VIP"—don't think too much about fame and glory and adulation.

Remember that "VIP" means not only "very important person." The "I" in "VIP" stands for another word beginning with the same letter. The word is "insecure."

In one of George Cohan's songs there was a line:

"I'd rather be a has-been than a never-was-at-all."
I'd prefer it the other way 'round.

State Police Say:

Perhaps some confusion exists in your mind as to where to stop in obedience to a STOP sign. In some localities, due to natural obstructions, it is necessary to erect the sign some distance back from the intersection. Under such circumstances it is not required that you stop at a point on the highway opposite the STOP sign, but stop before entering the intersection where you have unobstructed vision in both directions.

Ward Boys Forming Basketball Teams

At Mahoningtown playground the boys and girls of Mahoningtown school have been enjoying themselves during the lovely autumn days of this week. The grounds have been nicely cleaned up of falling leaves, etc.

Yesterday the health class witnessed moving pictures of McKeesport-New Castle football game and enjoyed it. They were much interested in players from the ward, Hugo Fioranti, Sam Perrino, Lee Richael and Chuck Mangino.

The boys are getting their basketball teams set up and are turning their entry blanks in to the recreation board, ready to get started on November 13.

It is believed that Fred Wimer will be in charge of the gymnasium. Fred has been employed about three years by the recreation board and has proven quite popular with the boys.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 20.—On the Paramount set of "Carrie," which brings Laurence Olivier back to the American screen, they are filming a scene which turns time back to the pre-prohibition saloon days.

The set represents a cheap restaurant-and-bar near the Bowery at the turn of the century and the elegant Mr. Olivier is the maitre in the fly-specked place.

In this dramatization of the Theodore Dreiser novel, he has held a similar job in a fashionable Chicago establishment, has run away to New York with Jennifer Jones, and has been disgraced in the trade. The only job he can find is in the Bowery Greasy Spoon.

Swanky Waiter

Olivier, with suave manner of a swanky head waiter, circulates amid the tables, is hooted at by the customers who wear unbuttoned vests and keep their derbies on while they wolf the food.

The set is a remarkable reminder of the past. There is sawdust on the floor, tables with red-checkered table-cloths, and, at one side, that once popular institution . . the free lunch.

It is mouth-watering. There are huge platters of roast beef, hot dogs and sauerkraut, sardines, potato salad, cole slaw, onions, celery, pickles, radishes and ruge hunks of cheese.

The fifty extra players crowd around the table and sample the lunch. It is real food and very good. And there is beer in huge heavy glass goblets to wash it down.

Popular Dishes

At the tables the customers are served corned beef and cabbage, beef stew, other hearty dishes popular at the time—and still popular.

Director William Wyler retakes the scene over and over again. The extras are eating away and Olivier walks through the scene.

Shortly before noon, a bonafide Paramount waiter appears on the set with a menu. And Olivier orders his lunch to be served in his dressing room. Possibly in revolt at all the dishes he has been staring at all morning, he orders an enchilada with chili and beans—a dish that certainly would not be found in the Bowery place.

"That," quips an onlooker glancing at the set, "isn't a very good recommendation for this restaurant—the manager goes out for lunch."

Will Block Reds Coming Via Cuba

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(INS)—The State department will slam the door before Nov. 1 on communists who have been using Cuba as an easy "stepping stone" to the United States.

It was learned by International News Service today that the department will notify Cuba by that date that it is canceling the reciprocal agreement under which Cuban citizens can enter the U. S. without visas or security screening of any kind.

The order will become effective Dec. 1. Cuba is expected to reciprocate when it receives the notification.

Plans will be made to send a large delegation to Franklin for the big promenade and wreck on Sunday, Oct. 29. Voyagers who want to take part in the wreck are to report at the Legion Home in Franklin at 10 a. m. on the 29th.

The voiture is also backing the state commander's banquet on October 26.

Five Dionnes Want To Go To College Together

By DAVID K. BOYNICK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. — The Dionne quints at sweet sixteen look forward to romance but shrink from the idea of "double" dates for fear of appearing as "a spectacle".

The famous sisters who came to New York to attend the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation dinner last night are as individual in taste and ambition as though they were born years—not hours—apart.

They are average, bright, teenagers with healthy and normal interests and problems which they confide in Papa and Mama Elzire Dionne as though they were five ordinary girls whose existence did not develop under an intense spotlight focussed by reason of their rare multiple birth.

This picture of Emilie, Marie, Yvonne, Annette and Cecile was drawn today by a person closely associated with the quints for most of their lives and who accompanied them to New York.

Sketches Of Girls

This person, who requested anonymity, gave the following sketches of the girls to International News Service:

Cecile, whom the sisters call "mademoiselle the extrovert," will be the first to marry. Of this the girls are sure.

Emilie is "the tomboy". For years she used to carry stones in her pockets and learned to throw them so expertly that she 'became the best pitcher in the quints' games of baseball."

Yvonne, who now acts as Papa Dionne's part-time secretary in his management of the family farm, aspires to "hold the job on a full time basis."

She learned to drive the family Cadillac without taking a single lesson, but since then the other girls also have learned to drive the car.

Brightest Of Five

Yvonne also is the brightest of the five "and her teachers at the Villa Notre Dame at Callender, Ont., exclaim constantly over her paintings and drawings."

Marie has the best voice, her music teachers say she has perfect pitch and the source added that "when her sisters sound a sour note Marie actually cringes in distaste."

Annette is the best pianist, although all the girls play well.

Cecile is the best cook of the quints and often takes over in the kitchen from Mama Dionne. Said the informant: "Actually, she is as good as an excellent French chef."

Cecile also likes housework and frequently does the chores in the farm home where the five 16-year-olds live with their brotners and sisters.

Fond Of Each Other

The girls are extremely fond of one another, "but like other teenagers they have their brief quarrels and frequently the home resounds with squeals of excitement as they engage in pillow fights in their bedrooms."

Their relationships with the nine Dionne non-quints is excellent and they are extremely fond of their brother Daniel. They practice their dancing with him and his boy friends who visit the Dionne farm stead.

The five girls, who are all accomplished in drawing and painting, want to go to college or art school together.

They dream of going out together with boy friends, but they have a "great fear of being considered a spectacle. This fear is a strong factor in their lives and accounts for their seeming shyness."

When the girls became 16 last May 28 they wrote a wish in their diaries—that they remain close and loving sisters for the rest of their lives.

Roundup Of Subversives To Be Started

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(INS)—The government is poised today to launch a nationwide roundup of approximately 3,400 immoral, criminal and subversive aliens which it has been unable to deport.

The immigration and naturalization service, acting under provisions of the McCarran Anti-Subversive law, will swing into action as soon as it gets clearance from the attorney general.

Acting I. and N. director Argyle Mackey told International News Service today:

"The regulations are drafted and are now at the attorney generals' office for approval. We are ready to go as soon as they are approved. I hope to get the approval by Friday.

"We have our fingers on the aliens concerned—most of whom were ordered departed at least six months ago, and many of them for a much longer time.

"They are circulating. We want to stop that."

From another source it was learned that approximately 3,400 aliens, at least 2,000 of whom are from Russia or iron curtain countries, are involved in the crackdown.

Mackey's disclosure came close on the heels of a declaration by President Truman that "the security of the United States is endangered by subversive activity."

College Players To Open Fall Season With "Dear Brutus"

The Westminster college Little Theater group will open the fall season Monday with the presentation of J. M. Barrie's fantasy, "Dear Brutus".

Other Little Theater productions scheduled for the school year are Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" to be produced March 12, and an unannounced production scheduled for December 4.

Need Two Hundred Million Dollars For Korean Relief In '51

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 20—(INS)—The United States told the United Nations that roughly 200 million dollars will be needed for Korean relief between now and the end of 1951.

U. S. delegate Isador Lubin told the economic and social council that this figure is a very rough estimate and will be revised within a week or ten days when definite information is expected from General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters.

Lubin said that for expeditious handling, the Korean relief program should be broken down into three groups—immediate relief requirements, current supply requirements and rehabilitation requirements.

He said the first category is the most important for the immediate future and includes food, clothing, shelter and medical supplies for the disorganized, dislocated and demoralized Korean population.

Lubin's second category covers such civilian supply items as fertilizer, raw cotton, coal, petroleum, and other materials needed to support normal production and distribution processes during the period of reconstruction.

The U. S. representative said that his third category was meant to include all external supplies, equipment and services needed in reconstruction, including lumber, cement, iron, steel transportation and electrical equipment.

Gideons Will Mark Eighth Anniversary With Dinner Event

New Castle camp of the Gideons will mark its eighth anniversary in this city, with a dinner event, which will take place, Saturday evening, October 28 at the Castleton hotel, it has been announced by officers of the organization.

The dinner will preface a rally of the local camp when men will visit the churches of New Castle on Sunday, October 29, to tell of the work being done in the orient in the distribution of Testaments and Bibles. Local pastors have granted ten minutes time for the Gideons to tell of their work during the morning services. Due to Reformation Sunday, a few churches will hear the Gideons at a later date.

The national Gideon organization of which the local group is a part, has received a telegram from General MacArthur telling of the need of more Bibles and Testament portions of the scriptures. Five million Testaments were ordered for the program which are now being distributed by Japanese Christians. The Testaments are printed in both Japanese and English. Occupation authorities have been a great help to the work.

To keep their program going, the Gideons must expend $56,000 a month in the Japanese occupied area alone. Local churches will be given an opportunity to aid in this work when the Gideon men visit the churches.

North Korean Leaders Fled Red Capital

PYONGYANG, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Residents of Pyongyang said today that North Korean government leaders fled the Red capital last week and took with them about 2,000 American prisoners, presumbly as hostages.

American and South Korean troops who occupied Pyongyang were unable to find any trace of American war prisoners in the capital up until 12:30 p.m. Friday (10:30 p.m. EST Thursday).

The UN troops also keep an eye out for Russian Nationals, believed to have been acting as advisers to the North Korean military leaders, but failed to locate any.

U. S. First Cavalry officers dispatched two tanks and an infantry squad this afternoon to investigate a Korean report that some prisoners were held in a camp south of the Taedong river near an air field. The rescue squad, however, failed to find any prisoners.

Blame Government Secrecy For Blocking Disclosures

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Government secrecy was blamed today for blocking "very, very sensational" disclosures in the Senate investigation of shipments of strategic U. S. goods to Red China.

Sen. O'Conor (D) Md., chairman of the subcommittee conducting the probe, indicated that official refusal to divulge certain facts is making it difficult to unravel the story of the shipments.

The chairman made his statements after his Senate Merchant Marine subcommittee heard that about a half-million gallons of lubrication oil were delivered to Communist China after the outbreak of hostilities in Korea.

The American oil was carried in ships of U. S. and foreign registry which picked it up in Japan for the last lap of the journey.

O'Conor hit at government "laxity" and said that the big question is: "How did the oil get out of Japan?"

Quincy Adams, of the Army's office on occupied areas, refused to answer the question in public hearings because, he said, it involved classified information.

O'Conor, contending this secrecy was unnecessary, declared:

"This story as it unravels may become very, very sensational. The American people have a right to know the facts concerning such deliveries, especially in view of the fact that at the outset of the Korean war, American oil companies entered a voluntary agreement not to send oil to Communist China."

Two Injured In Cleveland Wreck

CLEVELAND, Oct. 20.—(INS)—New York Central's Pacemaker continued its Chicago to New York run today following the removal of two persons injured when the passenger train collided with an electric engine in Cleveland.

Held for further examination at Glenville hospital are: Edward J. Sullivan, 26, of New York, a waiter who received back injuries when the impact hurled him against a table, and George Jean, 61, of Benton Harbor, Mich., who received bruises over the right eye and forehead.

Also held at the hospital is M. T. Hayes, of Elyria, O., fireman aboard the engine which collided head-on with the Pacemaker last night.

The accident was the second within 24 hours for the Central. The New York-to-Buffalo North Star was derailed in Oneida early yesterday and two crewmen were killed. Several others were injured.

The ant-eater is reported to be one of the most difficult animals to kill, owing to its tough skin.

New Castle Firms Are Low Bidders

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20—(INS)—John K. Bost, of Jamestown, has submitted an apparent low bid of $81,875 to the State Public School Building Authority for general construction of an addition to the Pymatuning Joint School District high school in Mercer county.

Low bids for sub-contracts: heading, Frank P. Andrews & Son, of New Castle, $16,256; plumbing, Albert N. Koch, of Sharon, $6,620; electrical, Bruce-Merrilees Electric Co., of New Castle, $10,990; and bleachers and gymnasium equipment, Fred Medart Products, Inc., of New York, $4,486 and $932.

Hudson To Show Spectacular Car

Announcment was made today by the Hudson Motor Car Co. of four distinctive lines for 1951, led by an entirely new series, the Hudson Hornet, a spectacular line, powered by the new H-145 engine, the most powerful six-cylinder auto engine in production.

These new cars are now on display at the Castle Garage, 217 North Mill street. New this year also is the four-speed Hydra-Matic Drive, which is optional equipment on the Hornet and Commodore Custom series. All lines are available in 13 solid color combinations, and four two-tone combinations.

Hudsons for 1951 are only five feet high, yet have full road clearance and more head room than any other car, due to exclusive step-down design, with recessed floor. Tests show they offer the best ride and are the safest automobiles on the road today.

Prize Winners In Carnegie Institute Exhibit Announced

The exhibit, which opened last night and will run through Dec. 21, is the first Carnegie International since 1939. It was discontinued at the time because of the war.

Stalin Not To Meet Stassen

Pravda Expresses Stalin's Attitude

MOSCOW, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin said "definitely no" today to Harold E. Stassen in an indirect answer to the University of Pennsylvania president's recent letter asking for "correspondence or further conferences" on ways to establish world peace.

Pravda, chief organ of the Communist party in Moscow, published an apparently inspired article entitled "Harold Stassen's dirty game".

The communist newspaper alleged that Stassen's letter to Stalin was merely an election maneuver and said Stassen's program appears to conform with an armaments drive in preparation for war.

The letter by Stassen, American presidential aspirant in 1948, was revealed on Oct. 4. Stassen once interviewed Stalin—in April of 1947.

His October letter to the Soviet premier, written as a private citizen, said that Russian activities in Korea and Germany belied protestations that Russia wants peace. He called on Stalin to alter the policy of the Soviet Union.

Folks Of Fame

Mary Baker Eddy was born at Bow, near Concord, N. H., on July 16, 1821. She married Col. George W. Glover of Charleston, S.C., and lived there until his death, after which she made her home in New Hampshire and Massachusetts. In 1877 she married again and gives as this date her discovery of the religion which she founded in Boston, from whence it has spread throughout the world. She wrote many books, her first, published in 1875, is considered the Bible of her faith. She died December 3, 1910, leaving the bulk of her estate to be used for extending the world's knowledge of the religion which she taught.

Eddie Dowling is a noted actor, and producer. He was born in Woonsocket, R. I., December 9, 1894. He was once a cabin boy on an ocean liner, but made his first appearance on the stage in Quo Vadis, in Providence, R.I. He toured in England as a member of a choral party. His first New York appearance was in a sketch titled, The Velvet Lady in The Ziegfeld Follies and acted in other Ziegfeld Follies. His first starring role was as Jimmie Dugan in Sally, Irene and Mary, of which he was part author. From then on he became producer as well as actor. He collaborated in producing The Glass Menagerie. He was also part author of Sidewalks of New York. He has appeared occasionally on radio. His home is in New York City.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

The practical jokes that delight me most are the ones that bounce right back and smack the perpetrators in the face. Like the occasion, for instance, when a neophyte in the new issues department of J. P. Morgan & Co. was informed: "Mr. Morgan is very deaf, you know, and doesn't like to be reminded of it. When he asks you a question, be sure you shout and answer in his ear."

The first time the young man heeded this advice Mr. Morgan, of course, bellowed, "What the devil do you mean by shouting at me this way? Get out of here!" Thereafter, however, the victim of this trick was the one junior clerk Morgan recognized. Inside of two years he was head of one of the departments, and had the unique pleasure of firing his tormentor personally.

The president of the Wallager Falls Bridge club enjoys showing off her young son's store of scientific knowledge to her fellow members. One day she urged, "Go on and tell them, Jerome, what it means when steam comes out of the spout of the kettle." "It means," said Jerome, "that you are about to open one of father's letters."

'Preventive War' Is Assailed By Gen. Eisenhower

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20—(INS)—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, president of Columbia University, last night assailed "preventive war."

The wartime commander of allied forces, speaking at the Founder's Day celebration at Carnegie Music Hall in Pittsburgh, declared:

"There is no such thing as a preventive war. Although this suggestion is repeatedly made, none has yet explained how war prevents war."

Eisenhower urged preparedness but at the same time decried Soviet propaganda that this country is planning an imperialistic campaign.

"Never will our sword become so big that it conceals the olive branch," he said.

Addressing the Western Pennsylvania Columbia Alumni Association earlier in the day, Eisenhower discussed plans for a joint study of national and international problems by college professors and businessmen.

Russia Against Army Units In West Germany

LONDON, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Russia declared today that it will not "tolerate" the formation of any native army units in Western Germany.

Radio Moscow broadcast the text of a Russian note to the western Allies which said:

"The Soviet government states it will not tolerate such measures of the governments of the United States, Britain and France aimed at reviving the German regular army in Western Germany."

The Russian note was in reply to representations from the Big Three western powers concerning the Soviet arming of police in Eastern Germany who have been organized into virtual military units.

The Soviets asserted that the accusation that police of the Eastern "German Democratic Republic" had a military character had no foundation.

They insisted that the police force created in Eastern Germany in 1945 had as its sole purpose the carrying out of normal police functions.

Continuing, the note said that "the Soviet government resolutely rejects" the United States contentions that the police of the "German Democratic Republic" do not discharge usual police functions and is of military character.

Health Talks

MATERNAL IMPRESSIONS

Birth marks cause a lot of discussion.

Mom burned her arm when she was carrying Butch. When he was born he had a birth mark on the very same spot.

Scientists tell us that there is not very much to this birth mark stuff.

However, they are very much interested in children called Mongolians. These children are born with deficient minds. Their faces resemble Chinese.

One of our state institutions is said to have 2100 of these unfortunates to care for at a cost of $500 a year each.

These children are born in families where all the other children are normal.

A lot of investigation is being done to find out the whys and wherefores.

Democrats Have $100-A-Plate Dinner In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20. — (INS) — Democratic state coffers were swelled by $200,000 today by a $100-a-plate dinner in Philadelphia featuring claims of victory in November by the party's statewide candidates.

Two thousand partisans crowded into the Bellevue-Stratford hotel ballroom to hear addresses by Richard Dilworth, gubernatorial aspirant, and Sen. Francis J. Myers, seeking re-election, among others.

Dilworth predicted that the Democrats would carry Philadelphia by more than a 100,000 majority, boosting his previous estimate of a 75,000-vote margin.

Windows Are Found Broken In 9 Schools

Inspection conducted last night by detectives and police engaged in a hunt for window-smashers, resulted in the discovery of 37 broken windows in nine schools. In addition, two windows were found broken in two business houses, bringing the number of windows with holes to 39. According to police, the holes were caused by "BB" bullets.

The officers said they were unable to determine when the windows were smashed.

To Ask For Reward

As a result of their report, Mayor John F. Haven said today he plans to ask city council to offer a reward of $50 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the window smashers.

One week ago Saturday night nine auto windows were broken and windows smashed. Last Saturday night, additional windows were broken, according to police records. In addition an auto top was damaged badly.

The list of breakage discovered last night follows:

George Washington Junior high, eight windows.
Arthur McGill, one window.
Highland Avenue, one window.
Thaddeus Stevens, eight windows.
Rose Avenue, seven windows.
Pollock Avenue, three windows.
Oak Street, one window.
West Side, four windows.
Terrace Avenue, four windows.

In addition to the foregoing, a 4x6 window was broken in the Riley Feed company, East Washington street, and one broken in the DiCarlo market, South Mill street.

According to Mayor Haven some detectives were transferred from day turn duty to night duty. Police, ordinarily in uniform, have been put in plainclothes. All of the police cars, in addition to officers' private cars are being used in an effort to apprehend the vandals.

Lehigh Will Take Perfect Record To Hanover For Dartmouth Tussle

By TROY GORDON
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

Lehigh University makes a bid for recognition as a rising gridiron power in the east this week in the No. 1 contest involving a Pennsylvania college team.

The unbeaten and untied engineers play Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H., Saturday. Admittedly, Dartmouth has seen better seasons, but this one is the toughest test by far for Bill Leckonby's boys. If they get by the green squad, Rutgers, Muhlenberg, Carnegie Tech and Lafayette will stand in the way of a perfect season.

Lehigh made it four in a row with a convincing 49 to 6 victory over Gettysburg last week. Meanwhile, Dartmouth was losing to Penn, 42 to 26.

International News Service is putting the engineers on the spot by picking them to win in the Pennsylvania upset of the week.

The INS tabulation last week was 21 correct selections, eleven wrong and three ties—a 656 percentage. For the year, the score is 80 right, 40 wrong and six ties—.667.

There are plenty of other big games.

For example, Penn goes to New York to play Columbia in an Ivy league contest. Because of the fabulous Francis Bagnell, Penn is a confident choice.

Penn State (1-2-0) has another tough assignment against Nebraska at Lincoln. The Nittany Lions defeated the Corn Huskers last season, but obviously this is another years—Nebraska.

Pitt (0-3-0) runs into another undefeated opponent, Northwestern, at Evanston, Ill. A little more improvement will find the Panthers ready to win, but not this week—Northwestern.

Villanova (1-2-0) has the same misfortune. Kentucky, which plays at Villanova Saturday, has five straight this year ,and the Wildcats should be No. 6—Kentucky.

Scranton University (3-0-0), in the midst of a good year, goes to Chester to play Penn Military College (1-3-0). The Royals gave Gannon and INS a beating last week, so a chastened expert humbly climbs on the bandwagon—Scranton, without trouble.

Duquesne (0-3-1) has another tough one against St. Bonaventure at Pittsburgh Saturday night. The Bonnies are unbeaten. In addition, they beat Boston University, one of Duquesne's conquerors — St. Bonaventure.

Temple (1-2-0) ought to bounce back from its last-minute loss to Rutgers. Wayne University of Detroit is this week's foe at Philadelphia.—Temple.

Carnegie Tech (3-0-0) vs. Allegheny (0-2-1)—break up the Tartans!

Bucknell (2-2-0) vs. Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y.—The Red Raiders.

Brockport (N. Y.) at Clarion (0-3-0)—Eagles lost No. 4.

Thiel (3-0-0) at Edinboro (1-3-0)—Tomcats on the prowl.

Washington & Jefferson (0-3-0) vs. Geneva (4-1-0) at Beaver Falls (night)—Geneva, easily.

Muhlenberg (2-1-0) at Gettysburg (1-3-0)—it's the Mules' turn.

Grove City (0-3-0) vs. Westminster (1-2-1) at New Wilmington—the Titans by a nose.

Haverford (1-1-0) vs. Juniata (1-2-0) at Huntingdon—the Indians?

Indiana State (3-0-1) at Slippery Rock (2-2-0)—the Rockets on a hunch.

Lafayette (0-4-0) vs. Delaware at Wilmington, Del. — Leopards lose their fifth.

Danny O'Connell cost the Pirates $50,000 and a little-known player who was transferred from Indianapolis to Brooklyn's St. Paul farm club. When Branch Rickey completed the deal, he guaranteed O'Connell would make up for all past "misunderstandings" that had resulted from previous Pittsburgh-Brooklyn trades.

Hoover Demands Western Europe Build Own Armies

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Former President Herbert Hoover wants to see western Europe build its own formidable army before the United States supplies further economic and military aid to democratic nations on the continent.

The only living ex-President expounded his views last night in a broadcast over the Columbia network.

Hoover declared that the U. S. should make a new appraisal of its position if there is no effective mobilization by member countries of the United Nations to assume major roles in their own defense.

He said that additional American aid should be withheld "until a definitely united and sufficient European army is in sight."

His speech contained sharp criticism of the European countries who are party to the North Atlantic pact for not having done their share to meet the threat of communism.

Hoover contended that this failure raised doubts whether these countries had the will to fight if necessary.

In his warning that America cannot be expected to wage the fight against communism alone and that other democrtaic nations will have to help themselves, he eliminated Great Britain from criticism.

Former Mayor Of Chicago Drops Dead In Doctor's Office

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Former Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, one of the real powers of the Democratic party and the man who gave Harry Truman a leg up to the presidency, died today at the age of 74.

The tall, sandy-haired engineer died, ironically, in the office of his personal physician of a heart attack.

Kelly had just undergone one of his periodic examinations by Dr. Vincent J. O'Connor at the doctor's office.

Told he was fine, big Ed rose happily to shake hands with Dr O'Connor.

Then he turned to grasp the door handle. Suddenly, he gasped and fell to the floor.

Dr. O'Connor hurriedly administered aid and summoned a fire department inhalator squad.

The firemen labored over their former boss for more than an hour He was dead.

And for Chicago and the nation an era had ended.

Sir Stafford Cripps Resigns Post In Labor Government

London, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Sir Stafford Cripps, who earned himself the name of "Mr. Austerity" in Britain's Labor government, resigned as chancellor of the exchequer Thursday because of ill health.

Cripps also resigned his seat in the House of Commons but said he hopes after a year of rest to resume public life.

Pale and haggard after three month of severe suffering from an internal ailment, Cripps will wind up his affairs in a few days and go to his country home.

He is cancelling all engagements and may take a sea voyage later.

Cripps, who is 61, has been chancellor of the exchequer since 1947 and was responsible for the post-war budgets by which the Labor government has been striving to close its "dollar gap" by means of economies at home and stepped-up production.

In his thankless job as chancellor, Cripps has been one of the outstanding targets of the British Conservatives, who maintain that his socialistic policies have carried Britain to the verge of bankruptcy and made it virtually dependent upon the bounty of the United States.

List 21,101 Doctors, Dentists, Registered On Last Monday

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(INS)—Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey announced today that 21,101 physicians, surgeons, dentists and veterinarians registered last Monday for possible future induction into military service.

The Army already has requested selective service to call up 922 medical doctors, 500 dentists and 100 veterinarians next month for induction.

The registration last Monday was first under the recently-enacted medical-dentist draft law and covered men who were trained at government expense or were deferred and trained at their own expense and saw little military service during World War Two.

Hershey said the total number of registrations included 13,968 physicians, 4,989 dentists, and 2,144 veterinarians.

Report Negotiations On Wages Completed

Wage negotiations have been completed between the Valley Manufacturing Company and Local 630, United Automobile Workers.

The new contract calls for a ten cents per hour increase across the board, and a sick and accident insurance policy with the following provisions. A maximum of twelve dollars per day for hospital fees, $280 medical fee, $225 surgical fee and a $3,000 life insurance policy.

For the union Peter Costella, staff representative of UAW and Local 630 president Ray Campbell negotiated. For the company, Lloyd Neff was the representative.

In addition to the union contract salary increases have been granted which provide monthly increases of not less than $17.50.

Non-Essential Construction May Be Banned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(INS)—The nation's building industry was notified today that the government may ban non-essential construction "in the very near future."

The warning came from William H. Harrison, chief of the new national production authority, who said he felt the defense program would require such a ban.

An NPA spokesman said the regulation under consideration would apply to race tracks, dance halls, amusement parks and some other "places of amusement." He said it would probably also include a prohibition on extensive alteration or remodeling of amusement places.

Harrison stated his views Wednesday at a closed door meeting with builders and representatives of allied industries—and got an immediate protest.

Industry spokesmen urged that instead of government restrictions, business itself should undertake conservation of critical materials and that non-defense construction by federal, state and local governments should be sharply curtailed.

After the meeting, NPA said that agency officials would confer with organized labor and other groups before making a final decision on the ban.

Bogart Thinks He'll Make It

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Humphrey Bogart, who is bucking for social Pariah of 1950, believes he will make it without a single dissenting vote.

Since he was barred from the Stork club a few nights ago after some light persiflage with the proprietor, Sherman Billingsley, and since he was barred forever from El Rocco during his last visit to New York some months ago, the actor believes he is one up on all other contenders for the title.

"Can Never Overtake Me"

"The challengers will never overtake me," Mr. Bogart said confidently. "I still have several more days to go in New York and feel with a little effort on my part, I can probably get barred from Central Park and Ebbets field before entraining for the west.

"As a matter of fact," he added with modest grace, "the only places I am really socially acceptable now are 'Twenty-One' and the Grand Central."

I found Mr. Bogart in his suite at the St. Regis hotel, curled up with a good highball and an old cigarette cough. He was tastefully attired in a pair of gray flannel slacks and a white shirt with a plunging neckline so daring it plainly revealed that as of now Mr. Bogart has more hair on his chest than on his head.

Whyfore of Success

So I says, "Not to beat around the bush, Mr. Bogart, and not to put too fine a point on it, what makes you such a repugnant character socially? To what do you owe your success?"

The original bogie-wogie and tough guy of the movies took a long, thoughtful swig from his highball and finally said:

"Put it down to natural charm. I'm loaded with it. And experience, too. It takes a long time to develop a repulsive character like mine. You just don't get to be the Boris Karloff of the supper clubs over night. You got to work at it."

Mr. Bogart believes he has established something of a record on his current trip to New York.

"I got in on Friday morning," he explained, and bingo! I am barred from the Stork club that same night. When I heard Mr. Billingsley saying 'never darken this door again,' it occured to me that I have probably heard that phrase more often even than the heroine of 'Way Down East'.

"If I continue to get thrown out into the snow every time I come east, I shall have to acquire a set of long-handled drawers for protection against the inclement weather."

May Open Restaurant

Mr. Bogart is also toying with the idea of opening his own restaurant in New York.

"It will be a very exclusive joint," he continued, "with patronage restricted to high-class creeps who have been thrown out of other clubs."

At this point, the door of the suite burst open and a very beautiful whirlwind swept in excitedly crying, "look what I just bought!"

It was Mrs. Bogart, otherwise Lauren Bacall, and what The Look had bought was not a new white mink ski suit but a ten-cent bag of hot chestnuts.

"She's been barred by Warner Brothers in Hollywod," Mr. Bogart said with a glance at his wife.

"Well, we can still eat at "Nedick's' and 'Chockful O'Nuts'," Mrs. Bogart said. "I've got pull there."

"If you had any ambition," Bogie reproached his wife, "you'd get barred from Madison Square Garden this trip. That would give us the doubles championship and we could turn pro. I'm telling you, there's money in it."

"You have to hand it to him," his wife said fondly. "El Morocco and the Stork club! When he gets barred he gets barred from the right places!"

First Degree Verdict Asked

BRIDGETON, N. J., Oct. 20.—(INS) — Prosecutor George H. Stanger called further witnesses today to bolster his demand for a first degree murder conviction of Theodore Carter, 18, for the strangling of 17-year-old Loraine Hess last May 13.

"I think a man who would kill a sweet, innocent girl like Lorraine Hess belongs out of society permanently," Stranger told a jury of eight men and four women.

Stranger said he would show that Carter accosted Lorraine on a Millville street and strangled her with her belt when she resented his conversation.

"There has been an attempt in some quarters to describe this defendant as childlike," remarked the prosecutor, "but I can tell you that pictures were found in his room in Bridgeport, Conn., and in his wallet which were vile."

Defense Attorney William Galiner declared in an opening speech that Carter had the mind of a 9-year-old and signed a "confession" because of pressure by police and psychiatrists.

Building Shop At Indiantown Gap

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Completion of a $300,000 repair and maintenance shop on the Indiantown Gap military reservation by mid-December was forecast today by State Adj. Gen. Frank A. Weber.

The project was described by Weber as the best-designed and fullest-equipped National Guard shop of its kind in the nation.

The Elizabethtown Building & Supply company of Elizabethtown was awarded a $200,549 contract to construct the shop. An additional $100,000 will be required, Weber said, for equipment, tools and parts.

The shop will maintain full-time personnel of approximately 100 mechanics and repair specialists, Weber said. They will repair and rebuild trucks, tanks, guns and ordnance equipment when home armories of National Guard units are unable to do the work.

Weber said that despite induction of the PNG's 28th division into federal service there still are 8,000 ground troops remaining in non-divisional units which have not been federally activated.

No Distinction Seen By Court In Being Candidates For Office

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Supreme court sees no distinction in being a candidate for public office.

The high court ruled yesterday that candidate or not, a person can spend no more time in the polls on election day than it takes to cast a ballot.

The decision arose from the activities of a Philadelphia candidate for the legislature who was siad to have spent more time inside the polls than was allowed last election day.

Candidates and all other persons are required to keep at least 10 feet away from the polls after having voted.

Baruch Urges All-Out U. S. Mobilization

ROCHESTER, Minn., Oct. 20.—(INS)—Bernard Baruch last night urged all-out U. S. mobilization for two years to "narrow the fearsome gap between Soviet rearmament and the defenses of the western nations".

The elder statesman assailed the concept of "creeping mobilization" and said American unpreparedness in relation to Russia's might is "the terrible vacuum which could suck the world into another shattering war". He added:

"We must now always be prepared for war . . . the new scourge of Communist imperialism feeds on indecision and weakness."

Baruch devoted a major portion of his speech—the annual Plummer-Judd memorial lecture at the Mayo clinic in Rochester—to the danger that the U. S. will be "gutted by the inflationary potentialities of its preparations".

He lashed out at "politics as usual, profits as usual and business as usual" and called for creation of a single, over-all independent mobilization agency, reporting directly to the president, to set up a "thorough-going" priority system.

Police Investigate Reported Fleecing Of Youth Of $40

John Carbone, age 18, of 235 Smithfield street, was "fleeced" out of $40, yesterday by an alleged artificer, attired in truckers' clothing.

The man telephoned the lad's mother, stating he had a job for John and said John would need some money for expenses, which would be returned in his first pay.

John met the man in front of The Castleton.

The man said he worked for "Chicago Freight Lines", asked John for the money, and was given $40.

He told John he would meet him at the Leslie hotel. John went there, waited four hours, and the artificer did not appear.

The man was described as age 28, five feet eight inches tall, weight 140, built slender, had blonde hair, and wore a trucker's attire.

New Hurricane Warning Given

(BULLETIN)

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 20.—(INS)—The storm-battered Florida peninsula was alerted today for a new 90-mile an hour hurricane moving rapidly eastward in the Gulf of Mexico toward the state's west coast.

Hurricane warnings were ordered raised on the West Florida shore south of Cedar Keys to Fort Myers, including the populous Tampa-St. Petersburg area.

The Miami weather bureau reported in a 12:30 p. m. (EST) advisory that late reports from storm-tracking reconnaissance planes indicated the gulf storm has expanded into a full-blown hurricane.

The center of the tempest was last located about 300 miles west of Fort Myers, Fla., and was reported to be roaring toward West Florida at a forward speed of 15 to 20 miles an hour.

Storm warnings were ordered up on both coasts of the Florida peninsula.

Grady Norton, chief forecaster for the Miami weather bureau, said the new hurricane should strike the coast in the Fort Myers-Tampa area tonight.

Norton advised residents of the area to "take all emergency precautions immediately."

Industrial Alcohol Need For Defense Is Told To Distillers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—(INS)—The government told 20 distillers in a private conference yesterday that it will need 10 million gallons of industrial alcohol for defense purposes by the end of January.

Reconstruction Finance officials told the distillers that they hoped the industry would provide the needed alcohol on a voluntary basis within the industry, so that no controls would be necessary.

The federal officials said they believed that with industry cooperation the alcohol could be obtained without causing any liquor shortages.

The RFC officials said that the alcohol is needed for the reactivated synthetic rubber plants and that the government plans to make its first alcohol purchases early in December.

United States Dams Can Withstand Silt

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—The United States will not lose its multi-million dollar investment in hydroelectric and irrigation dams due to slt-clogged reservoirs.

A recently completed two-year research project by the U. S. Geological Survey at Hoover dam on the Columbia river indicates the Lake Mead reservoir will not be filled with silt until the year 2225—275 years from now at the present rate of sedimentation.

This deadline will not be reached in the foreseeable future because dams to be built upstream from the world's largest reservoir will lessen the Colorado river's siltation.

Earnings of Hoover dam will repay construction costs within 57 years. In addition, Hoover dam would remain one of the major hydroelectric power producers in the West. Even if the reservoir should become filled with silt the flow of water through the intakes would not be affected.

Director W. E. Wrather, of the Geological Survey, characterized the Lake Mead study as the most comprehensive examination of sedimentation in reservoirs yet to be made.

The U. S. Navy cooperated in the project by probing the bottom of Lake Mead with electronic and other devices usually used to chart the ocean floor and to locate submarines and sunken ships.

Studies at other reservoirs are similiar to the Lake Mead findings.

The worst sedimentation is taking place at the Guernsey reservoir on the North Platte river in Wyoming. Yet the Guernsey reservoir has a useful life beyond the 40-year payout period despite a 33 per cent reduction in capacity in 20 years. Present silt deposits will be cut 87 per cent when the upstream Glendo dam is built.

New Idea For "War Chest"

G.O.P. State Leaders Come Up With New Idea To Get Funds

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20—(INS)—The Republican State Finance Committee has come up with the novel idea of selling "insurance" to build up its campaign war chest. . . . For any contribution, the buyer is presented a simulated insurance policy. . . . Printed on the outside are the words "insurance to protect your flame of freedom." . . . The "Policy" notes that the benefits insures against theft, disaster, destruction and loss of freedom. . . . The "policy" declares the future welfare of ourselves and our families is threatened by the program of the present fair deal administration and continues, "Their course leads to, (1) An all enveloping bureaucracy that will control our lives from cradle to the grave; (2) To a constant state of crisis, world and domestic, to confuse us; and, (3) To a single party monopoly on power that will destroy the fundamental values of Democratic captialism. . . . Under the "premium" claus a space is provided for contributions to the State Republican Finance Committee and a pledge to vote Republican November 7, 1950.

The strike against Pittsburgh's three daily newspapers has hit the Republican cause in the steel city where a special Grand Jury has been investigating charges that Democratic city officials used city labor for private work. . . . It is feared the voting populace will forget the probe unless the headlines keep it before them. . . . The Pittsburgh investigation was expected to neutralize the probe in connection with GOP expenditures in the Luzerne County primary campaign.

During 1948 and 1949 Pennsylvania's ratio of hunters to fatalities from hunters' gunfire was 36,000 to one. . . . "This betters by twice similar hunter-gun death comparisons over the past 26 years, indicating that safety campaigns are paying off," notes the State Game Commission. Nevertheless, the commission warns, a glance at last year's casualties reveals that most of the injuries and deaths were the result of "the greed for game, lack of firearms training, carelessness, or smug complacency in the part of experienced hunters." . . . Last year 40 per cent of the fatalities were by the victim's own hand; the greater percentage of those who killed themselves were of mature age; most of the fatalities were by a shotgun and not rifles; 52 per cent of the deaths were caused by firearms left in a dangerous position and 40 per cent were caused through carelessness in the open field.

Though invitations have gone out and each minute detail has been attended to, the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission still refuses to declare positively that the 100-mile eastern extension will be opened October 23, as announced. . . . In the itinerary for the dedication and preview ceremonies, the Turnpike announces that at the Carlisle interchange Monday afternoon the chairman of the commission will declare the 10-mile Philadelphia extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike system "practically" completed.

WAYS TO KEEP INTEREST IN MEALS

It is up to you as a homemaker to make mealtime interesting and food associations pleasant. After all, food must be eaten to count for good nutrition.

One thing you can do to keep interest in mealtime is to make a collection of nutritious recipes that the whole family enjoys, then use these recipes reasonable often. When re-using one of these favorites, you may vary the meal with different food combinations.

If a dish seems dull, change the flavor with seasonings, or combine with other foods in different ways. Contrast in food colors, flavors, and textures helps to keep up the interest in meals. Some bright-colored food and something crisp, can heighten the eye appeal and appetite appeal of any meal.

Remember to give children small servings, big amounts of food may be discouraging. It is better for a child to form the habit of cleaning his plate and asking for a second serving, if he wants it.

CHECK WINTER COAT NOW FOR REPAIRS

It is time to look over your winter coat to see if it is ready for the cold weather ahead. Check the repairs or changes that you need to make in the garment. Perhaps you will want to shorten or rehem the coat. Notice how the lining is finished at the hem so that you can finish the new hem in the same way. Mark the coat for the new length. Rip out the coat hem and baste the new hem. If the new hem is more than two inches wide, trim it off to this width, then finish hem and lining.

If a whole new lining is needed, rip out the old one careful so it will not be torn or stretched. Press each piece and use as a pattern for the new lining. Solve the problem of worn edges on collars and cuffs by cutting them down to a smaller shape. Or get a completely different touch with a new collar and cuffs of velvet or fur.

If buttonholes are slightly raveled, fasten thread to stop raveling and rework buttonholes. New buttons also will add a different look.

To mend a small hole or tear, ravel some yarns from one of the coat seams. A mend made with self thread will be less noticeable. Make sure that all rips or broken seams are repaired.

Be sure to steam, press, and brush the coat after you make all the repairs.

WAYS TO PUT MILK IN THE SCHOOL LUNCH

With the approach of cooler weather, homemakers try to plan dishes that will give a school child something hot in his lunch box, in addition to the milk that he needs.

Generous use of cheddar cheese in sandwiches helps to provide the same food nutrients as milk. Hot cream soups and chowders that can be kept in the thermos bottle also will give Johnny some milk. Cup custard for dessert is another solution to the problem.

The packed lunch should contain one or more of these foods each day: milk, a cream soup or chowder, hot cocoa, cheese sandwich, or cup custard. Homemakers are urged to collect a variety of cream soup recipes and cheese sandwich filling ideas for their files. Youngsters appreciate variety in their lunch box.

"Some Cheese Sandwich Suggestions"

1. Put cheddar cheese through food chopper; mix with bits of crumbled bacon and minced onion; whole wheat bread.
2. Take equal amounts of cheddar cheese and cold meat; put through food chopper; season with pickle relish; enriched white bread.
3. Mix snappy cheese with chopped nuts and olives; crisp crackers.
4. Thin slices of swiss cheese and ham; with dill pickle; rye bread.
5. Use oatmeal bread; spread one slice with peanut butter another slice with snappy cheese, and put them together.
6. Spread Boston Brown bread with cream cheese and orange marmalade.
7. Cream cheese and chopped parsley; whole wheat bread.
8. Cottage cheese mixed with chopped dried prunes; cracked wheat bread.

Charges Television Sales Racket

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20—(INS)—Allegheny county detectives today were investigating what they said was a television sales racket.

Taken into custody, officers said, were four viedo set salesmen of a Pittsburgh television sales firm. They were identified as: William Jericho, 28; Carroll Owens, 44; Lincoln Nichols, 39; and Donald Watters, 27.

Detectives said the accused salesmen would deliver a television set and accept a down payment. Several days later the salesman would return, refund the down payment and remove the set, police reported.

The sets then were resold with the original owner still being held responsible for the payments, according to detectives, they began working on the case two weeks ago when the company reported about 30 sets missing.

FILES SUIT VS. SCHOOL

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20—(INS)—A Washington and Jefferson College professor has filed a suit in Federal Court against the school at Washington, Pa., charging breach of contract.

Babson Takes Look Ahead For Next Forty Years

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1950—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 20.—I am coming to the conclusion that historians of the future will write off the whole 20th century as a century of uncertainty, confusion and continuous warfare. Our salvation lies in human research and the discovery of natural laws which govern the interactions of men and obtains for us a free power from gravity or the sun, not from atomic energy.

Roger W. Babson

Our Culture Too Materialistic

One of my able business associates believes that only a great new revolution, such as the application of atomic energy to industry, would bring about peace by diverting men's minds to new fields of endeavor. My friend may be right, but I think he has overlooked the fact that we have already progressed so fast technologically that we have been unable to keep pace spiritually.

Our worship of machines, gadgets and amusements has created for us a very "comfortable" push-button existence. It has, at the same time, drained off our best brains into physical-scientific pursuits and left undeveloped the whole science of man. The common man is beginning to feel the pinch of this mistake. This country has given all kinds of economic aids to its workers such as better homes, larger bank accounts, more automobiles, and radios, health insurance, pensions, etc. Yet, I doubt if there ever was a time in history when men felt less secure and more confused.

Men Must Study Man

One of the reasons why the eastern and western worlds are at war today is because the citizens of these nations are materialistic, uncertain and apathetic. Their respective ideologies have not given them what they expected. In war the immediate goal is to win the war. We expect hardships; we endure them. In peace, we expect something else. Like the little child, if a nation does not get what it expects, the nation has a temper tantrum.

I predict that before we can have peace in the world, men must study man and develop a science for living. But this costs money and we must be as willing and eager to devote as many billions to this type of research as we are to atom bombs, 100-inch telescopes, electronics and the like. We must discover what environmental stimuli and idealized goals are universally acceptable and zealously followed. What the U. S. and much of the rest of the world needs is not a better five-cent cigar, but a better "five cent" religion which will be understood by everyone, which is honest, dynamic, specific and scientifically sound.

Changing Human Nature

I can hear the out and out pessimists and defeatists warning: "You can't change human nature." Admittedly, we can't change God's physical laws, but by understanding His laws we can and we have changed the face of the earth quite remarkably. In my lifetime for example, through an understanding of natural laws, we have built skyscrapers, driven engines hundreds of miles an hour, bred faster horses, fatter hogs, taken the seeds out of oranges . . and even split the atom. Some day by understanding the force of gravity, we shall have a vast new source of energy and power.

I believe this same principle applies to humans. We may not be able to change man's basic instincts, but by understanding the laws of human nature which govern man's actions, we shall be able to channel human urges and drives into more constructive patterns of behavior.

As I look into the next 40 years I envision the development of a vast new science of man. In time this science, through its discovery of universal laws, will enable us both to understand and predict group behavior as well as to direct it toward constructive goals. Let's encourage our colleges to do research in this direction. Let's encourage business to devote a good portion of its resources to this worthy cause. Its findings may well be more world shaking than splitting the atom.

Says 28th Division Faces 28 Weeks More Of Training Program

CAMP ATTERBURY, Ind., Oct. 20—(INS)—Maj. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler, commander of the 28th Division, said today the division faces 28 more weeks of training after the pre-cycle training period ends about Nov. 1.

The new training period will include 11 weeks of individual instruction, 13 weeks of squad to battalion training, two weeks of regimental-level schooling and two weeks of divisional training.

Gen. Strickler said:

"In the four times I have been movilized I have never seen a finer spirit of cooperation than exists among the officers and enlisted men of this division. Morale is high, discipline is good, the camp is fine, and I am well pleased with the way things are going generally. The division is fortunate also in that most of its officers and non-commissioned officers are veterans with prior combat experience."

Overrule Exceptions To Soft Drinks Tax

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20—(INS)—Dauphin County Court on Thursday overruled all exceptions filed against an opinion upholding constitutionality of the commonwealth's penny-a-bottle soft drinks tax.

The Coca-Cola Bottling Company and the Pepsi-Cola Company had asked that the commonwealth be restrained from enforcing the original act which became effective June 1, 1947, but which was replaced by a second law 21 days later.

The levy produces approximately $27,000,000 a biennium.

Dulles Says U. S. Seeks To End Disputes

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 20.—(INS)—American Delegate John Foster Dulles declared in the United Nations today that the United States is willing to join in another try for ending disputes endangering world peace by direct consultations among major powers.

Dulles made this statement in the assembly's political committee, which debated a resolution by Syria and Iraq recommending such a renewed peace bid. The resolution stipulates that the representatives of the major powers in the security council meet individually or collectively and report back to the assembly during the current session.

Dulles said that he holds no great hopes for such talks but pointed out that "the more the great powers bring their differences to U.N. for discussion the better it is."

British and French delegates supported the resolution. With concurrence from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, the resolution is assured of almost unanimouse support.

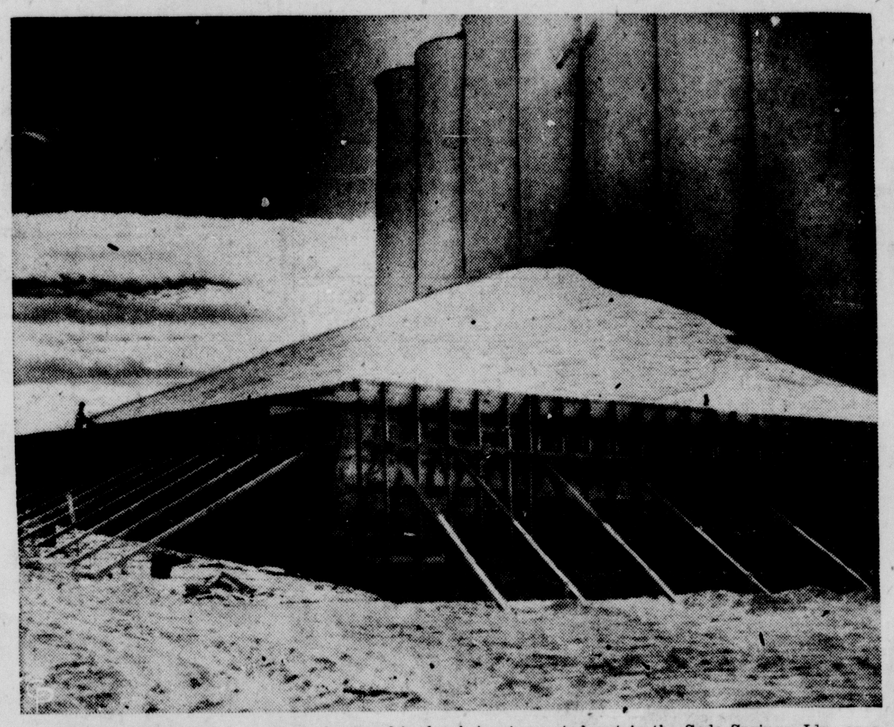
THEY'RE MAKING A BIG GAMBLE WITH ALL THAT GRAIN



DUMPED TO MAKE ROOM for spring wheat and barley being harvested wet in the Soda Springs, Ida., area, this pile of 400,000 bushels of grain will remain in the open all winter at Ogden, Utah. If the first rainfall is a moderate one, a two-inch crust will form on top of the grain pile and shed future rain and snow just like a sloping roof. Inspection Of Power Plant Is Continued

An inspection tour of Pennsylvania Power Company's New Castle Power Plant was made by a group of clergymen and Pennsylvania Week officials from this area last evening. This was in conjunction with the observance of Pennsylvania Week, and the group inspected the construction work on the new 12½-million-dollar addition to the plant.

R. A. Galbreath, superintendent of construction for the company, addressed them explaining the many details of construction. The new addition to the plant will be completed in the latter part of 1952 and will house a turbo-generator unit with a capacity of 85,000 kilowatts, doubling the present capability of the plant.

L. B. Round, president of the company, welcomed the group and spoke on the dangers of encroaching socialism.

P. G. Dingledy, assistant to the president, also addressed the gathering and explained the local expansion program.

Tomorrow morning at 11 school principals and science teachers from the territory served by the company will tour the plant. On Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5 p.m. the public is invited to attend.

All-Time Record For Chick Production During September

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—(INS)—An all-time September record for production of chicks was reported today for Pennsylvania.

The State Agriculture Department said 3,560,000 chicks hatched last year exceeded September, 1949, production by 38 per cent and the previous 1945 high by almost six per cent.

The bulk of the September hatch is headed for frying pans and roaster ovens, the department said, since egg production also is at record levels and farmers are turning to increased production of broiler to supply consumer demands for poultry meat.

Grateful Man Gifts The Salvation Army

CLEVELAND — (INS) — For 12 years the only persons who paid any attention to John Burt were the workers at the Salvation Army home in Cleveland.

Burt came to the home in 1932 after he had been laid off by a Cleveland firm during the depression.

His health failed him in 1944 and he was taken to a series of different hosptals. His fellow workers donated blood and brought him tobacco and gifts during the long hospital stays.

Burt died recently at 60 years of age in the Dayton, O., Veterans Administration hospital, but he did not forget his friends.

His will, filed in the Cuyahoga County Probate court, left about $6,000 in postal savings to the home. He wanted the money to be used for recreational purposes for men who lived and worked as he did.

Music was first taught in public schools of the United States in 1855-60.

To Close Bridge To Bus-Truck Traffic In State Capital

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—(INS)—The 61-year-old walnut bridge which channels east-west traffic over the Susquehanna river at Harrisburg will be closed to bus and truck traffic effective October 29 at 7 a. m.

State Highways Chief Engineer Em L. Schmidt said the order was issued in the "interest of maximum public safety as well as to prolong the life of the structure".

The effect of the order will be to switch bus and truck traffic to the Market street bridge only a few hundred feet away.

The bridge was taken over by the Highways department under the commonwealth's toll bridge acquistion program but the sale price still is in litigation. The Market street bridge also is owned by the commonwealth.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

YOUR CHILD IS SPECIAL.

Teachers and others are often critical because parents think that their own particular Tommy or Nancy has special abilities or special needs that make them stand out over other children. At times, indeed, this attitude may be so marked that a teacher or neighbor feels impatient and mutters, "You'd think those kids were the only one in the world."

Of course, if we insist that everyone look on our children as wonders or as deserving more attention than others, we will run into trouble. Let's remember, though, that it's not only justified but necessary for father and mother to think of Tommy and Nancy as "special." Their own particular abilities need fostering and their own particular needs should be met in the best way for them.

Tommy's drawing, which objectively is no better or perhaps not as good as that of other youngster's, will become better if he knows that mother likes to have his pictures tacked up in the kitchen. Nancy's fear of going to school alone should be recognized by her parents as something she needs help to grow out of instead of being told "All the other children do it. So can you."

Children in institutions too often lack this individual understanding, this "special" consideration. And they show this neglect in their emotional reactions. One of the reasons why families are good for us is that in a family each of us can be "special."

Huge Aid, Need In Korea Now

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur advised army headquarters today that South Korea will need 1,682,000 long tons of supplies costing $146,500,000 for relief and rehabilitation between now and January 1.

The army said shipments of the supplies have already begun. They include 610,000 tons of food, 220,000 tons of industrial supplies and equipment and 16,000 tons of medical supplies.

Leaking Gas Is Cause Of Fire

Firemen were called to the home of Frank Ross of 218 East Home street at 11:30 o'clock this morning when gas, leaking from a small break in a metal hose connection, became ignited. The blaze scorched the wainscoting behind the stove, causing damage of around $5, Fire Chief H. F. Steinbrink stated.

Beaver Valley Presbyterial At Highland U.P.

Representatives of various congregations in Beaver Valley Presbytery attended the fall presbyterial of the Women's Missionary society in Highland U. P. church on Thursday. Sessions were conducted in the morning and afternoon with Mrs. John C. Lorimer, Beaver Falls, president, presiding.

After an executive committee meeting, Mrs. J. C. Hanley of the host church led devotions. Following a business session, Mrs. Audrey Coleman gave "Highlights of the W. G. M. S. Convention" After various secretaries and missionaries spoke, Mrs. Russell K. Montgomery, Indian secretary of the W. G. M. S., told of her work.

Mrs. Montgomery, whose subject was "Telling His Story to the American Indian", told of the deplorable conditions existing among the Indians. There are no school facilities for 25,000 Indians. There is little food for them, and the nearest hospital to the U. P. mission is 100 miles away.

It was announced that the presbyterial has a deficit of $2,000 and there has been a decrease of $5,000 in the thank offering of women of Beaver Valley Presbytery. Mrs. M. C. Hallman, Ambridge, offered prayer.

Afternoon Session

Mrs. Edward Bradley, Mt. Jackson, opened the afternoon meeting with a meditation and praise service. Mrs. Nellie Beightol, New Brighton, spoke, her topic being "My Impressions of the W. G. M S. Convention". She stressed the sincerity of the various missionaries who were there and also told of hearing Dr. J. Lowrie Anderson the new moderator of the United Presbyterian church, speak.

After Mrs. W. Millen, Ellwood City, gave the offertory prayer and roll call was conducted, Mrs. Clark McClelland of the host church sang "Bless This House" with Mrs. S. Glenn McCracken, the church organist, as accompanist.

Dr. A. J. Roode Speaks

Dr. A. G. Roode, a medical missionary to the Sudan, was the main speaker of the afternoon, his subject being "Telling His Story in the Sudan". Dr. Roode told of his activities among members of the Anuak tribe. Each tribe in the Sudan has its own language. The land is poor, and there is a great deal of poverty among the people.

There is a lack of missionaries in the medical field. Dr. Roode told of malaria and the distress caused by the scorpion to the natives. After the inspirational talk, Dr. Jennings B. Reid, pastor of the church, closed with the benediction.

The missionary cabinet of the host church, headed by Mrs. Clinton Kennaday, was responsible for arrangements in entertaining the guests.

Promise Housewife More Leisure Time

NEW YORK — (INS) — Forty more hours of leisure time per month!

That's the promise now being made to American housewives by manufactures of a variety of new inventions and discoveries designed to save time and labor in household and personal chores. Some of them even save time that most women already regard as "free"—such as the hours they spend in beauty parlors.

New boons for homemakers range from automatic kitchen equipment to a spectacular new method for coloring the hair at home.

Automatic dishwashers are a leading timesaver. Manufacturers who have now equipped 500,000 homes say they save an average of eight hours per week. With some 37,000,000 electrically wired homes still to be equipped, virtually every dishwasher is sold before it comes off the production line.

Large gains in time, labor and money are expected from beauty aids that can be applied at home. A new discovery to be marketed in the fall may upset the whole pattern of beauty parlor trade. It is said to be a simple brush-on preparation that than can tint hair any one of 12 colors in less than half an hour. When added to the popular home permanent wave treatments, it endows the dressing table with all the advantages of a swank hairdresser's salon and save at least three hours per month.

Searches For Lost Music Manuscripts

MADRID—Search for the famous lost manuscripts of Beethoven and Mozart will take a young American to Poland.

Dr. Carleton Smith, director of the National Arts Foundation of New York, has obtained authorization from Polish authorities to continue there a quest which has consumed seven years.

The missing masterpieces, including Beethoven's Ninth Symphony and Mozart's Magic Flute, were removed from the Prussian State Library early during World War II and stored in the Benedictine Monastery at Grussau, then German Silesia. No word has been heard of them since.

Dr. Smith, now on a tour of Europe in the interest of an interchange of American and European art and artists, hopes that at the monastery he will be able to pick up the trail of the missing works.

Patients Get Job Training

PUEBLO, Colo. — (INS) — The Colorado State hospital in Pueblo has instituted five occupational therapy shops for rehabilitating its patients.

Dr. F. H. Zimmerman, superintendent of the mental institution, said patients considered for such therapy must be screened so that therapists can give the patient individual help. Each case is handled by a ward doctor's prescription.

Although occupational therapy has been utilized at the hospital for many years, the shop plan outside of wards is a new idea. Three of the rooms are for women and two for men, and include leathercraft, woodwork, sewing, weaving, metal work, puppetry, carving and even finger painting.

One of the shops makes nearly 700 dresses monthly for female patients, and takes care of a large amount of the institution's mending.

Dr. Zimmerman explained that the therapy arouses and develops attention, creates new interests, eases emotional strain, gives an outlet for repressed energies and substitutes encouragement for despair. It also has physical benefits.

The hospital superintendent said the therapy is part of the hospital's co-ordinated plan of recovery.

Philadelphia Mail Horses Will Stay

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—Perhaps the old gray mare "ain't what she use to be," but protests are not going to keep Philadelphia's horse-drawn postal wagons off the street.

At least that's the firm conviction of the Quaker City's Postmaster Raymond A. Thomas, who lately has been flooded with charges that the wagons should have gone out with the pony express.

John H. Eckels, chairman of the local citizen's committee for the Hoover report, claimed that the mail-via-mule-train system had made Philadelphia the target for jokes throughout the nation.

"They are typical of the antiquated and deficit-ridden postal system," according to Eckels.

But Postmaster Thomas thinks differently, mainly because he says the present system saves the local taxpayers $35,000 a year.

Thomas explained that the wagons have proven to be more efficient in areas where the streets are so small as to preclude the use of trucks.

In all, 29 horse-drawn wagons are being used in congested areas.

Housewives Asked For Budget Data

LONDON — More than 4,500 British housewives have been asked by the Government how they spend the family budget.

Their names were selected at random from local lists by the Government Social Survey office in London. The investigation is being conducted because the Government wants a general picture of the spending and standard of living of different families.

Each of the housewives has been sent a letter and a book in which they are asked to note day-to-day expenses for a week, including all bills paid.

These facts will be collected and the results of the survey will be published next year.

Roads North Of Pyongyang Are Choked

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Army headquarters announced today that the roads north of Pyongyang are "choked with vehicles and fleeing North Korean troops" headed toward Communist Manchuria.

An Army spokesman said this was the reason for sending U. S. paratroops northward in an attempt to head off the fleeing column. He added that the Air Force is "having a field day" in attacking the roads.

The spokesman confirmed a Tokyo announcement that paratroops have landed at Sukchon and Sunchon, on the main roads north of Pyongyang, and that the paratroopers have with them some 105 millimeter Howitzers dropped with 90-foot parachutes.

Mens Club Holds Meeting To Organize Scouts Cub Pack

Forty-five parents attended the first organizational meeting last night of the new cub pack being sponsored by the Men's club of the First U. P. church.

Rev. Robert Mayo extended greetings to the parents and introduced John Mikels, president of the Men's club. Members of the organizing committee are Dr. A. G. Reynolds, chairman, Charles B. Matthews and J. N. Suliot.

Hubert Cummings, cubmaster of pack 50, sponsored by the Ecclesian club, explained to the parents their responsibilities in the cubbing program.

Neighborhood Commissioner Herbert Rodgers showed the training film, "The Cub in the Home".

Following the film, Field Scout Executive John Lawson explained the Wolf cub achievement, and each parent present passed his bobcat requirement, which is a prerequisite to join cubbing.

The second meeting will be next Thursday evening at the First U. P. church. All parents not attending the first session are urged to be present for the next two or ganizational meetings.

Gabrielson Says G.O.P. Will Carry House and Senate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Republican National Chairman Guy Gabrielson predicted today that the GOP will carry both the House and Senate if Republicans continue the work they are now doing.

Gabrielson, who returned today from an eight-state western swing, challenged President Truman's forecast of a Democratic landslide and said he expects "just the reverse."

The GOP chairman at the same time said he thought the New York row over Lt. Gov. Hanley's letter—described by the Democrats as a "deal" with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey—would not have much political effect in New York or elsewhere.

Of Hanley's letter, Gabrielson told reporters:

"The letter is evidence of the poor position the Democrats are in when they are making so much noise about one letter."

Haufler Prisoner Of The Hurricane

Carl W. Haufler, of East Washington went to Miami, Florida as a delegate to the national convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and got a hurricane tossed in for good measure.

In a letter to a member of the News Staff Mr. Haufler describes a 23 hour nightmare in the hotel where he is stopping.

The lights went out, the hurricane knocked down trees, upset automobiles and damaged buildings outside and to the men and women from the north it seemed as if the Atlantic ocean was coming right in and wash the guests out.

With some other delegates and their wives Mr. and Mrs. Haufler were confined to their hotel but from their rooms saw some of the damage.

A tower on a nearby hotel was blown off and landed on the roof of a liquor store. A few minutes later the tower and liquor store went.

Fortunately it was possible to get some food and coffee in the rooms but for twenty three hours the guests were prisoners of the hurricane. Mr. Haufler closed by saying this was the first hurricane he ever saw and it will be all right with him if he never sees another.

Communist China Again Accuses U. S. On Air Flights

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 20.—(INS)—Communist China again accused the United States today of illegal military flights over Chinese territory and demanded that the United Nations security council act to stop American "aggression".

Chou En-Lai, foreign minister of Peiping, charged in a cable to U. N. that two U. S. warplanes "of the U. S. aggression forces in Korea" flew over two Chinese villages in the Liaotung Province on October 13 and 14. The cable said the planes flew over the Chinese border from Korea.

The Communist minister lodged a "serious protest" against the alleged flights and declared that the incident "indicates that the United States is actively extending her aggressive war on Korea."

(The United States admitted yesterday that two of its planes mistakenly attacked aircraft on a Soviet airfield near Vladivostok on October 8 and offered to pay for damages after an investigation by U. N.)

Seeking To Settle Newspaper Strike

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Publishers of Pittsburgh's three strike-bound newspapers were meeting with the striking mailers today in an effort to settle the 20-day-old strike that has shut down the city's newspapers.

The meetings first were resumed yesterday at the instigation of Mayor David L. Lawrence who complained the strike was hurting business in the steel city.

The mailers struck Oct. 1 in a wage dispute. Some 2,000 other non-striking newspaper employes are jobless because of the walkout.

Red Hurricanes Hosts To Erie Academy Gridders Here Tonight

Archie Zarone Will Captain Geneva Saturday In Game With W. & J. Team

Archie Zarone, Geneva's captain for the W. & J.-Geneva Homecoming game, has come a long way since 1947 when, as a freshman, he reported for football at Geneva, after starring at New Castle high.

In 1948, Archie didn't come out for football until after four games had been played. It was a fairly disastrous year for Geneva, anyway. The Covenanters managed to win two out of eight.

Last year was the speedy back's first full season. He played fullback until this year when Coach Walt West moved him into the Adams Karcis slot.

Dangerous Runner

So far this season, Arch has proven himself a dangerous open-field runner when he can be sprung past the line. Not pretending to be an all-round back, he does little passing or kicking, concentrating on downfield running. A good defensive man, he is used often as a line backer along with Sam Wilson, a freshman fullback who has proven a vicious tackler and a rock-steady backer.

The idea of game captain is, of course, not new to Geneva. A captain is chosen for every contest, and at the end of the season, the team elects one of their number honorary captain for the year.

Archie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zarone of 324½ South Jefferson street.

Nineteen Undefeated Major Colleges Gird For Action

By HOWARD SIGMAND
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Nineteen unbeaten major college teams go to the well this week and some of them are due to come away dry.

The biggest of the clashes occur in the southwest and the east, where conference rivals risk clean slates.

In Houston, Tex., Southern Methodist (4-0) tries to increase its national stature in a game with Rice (3-0) Saturday night.

Cornell (3-0), rated as one of the east's powerhouses, plays host to Yale (4-0) on Saturday.

Army Meets Harvard

Barring ties that will reduce the number of undefeated by two.

Army and Oklahoma, the two top teams in the nation, don't figure to taste defeat. The Cadets (3-0) go after their 24th straight without loss against hapless Harvard (0-2).

The Sooners (3-0) try for No. 25 in a row against Kansas State (1-4). California, another top-ranker (4-0), has a Pacific Conference date with winless Oregon State (0-3).

Washington (4-0) and Stanford (4-0), two other west coast powers, have rugged games. Washington has an intersectional joust with Illinois (2-1). Stanford plays UCLA (2-2).

Playing Today

Clemson, (3-0) one of the south's chief color-bearers, and a team that has yet to be scored upon, takes on South Carolina (2-1) this afternoon.

Vanderbilt (4-0) meets rough Florida (3-1), and Kentucky (5-0) meets Villanova (1-2) on Saturday, while Miami (Florida) (3-0) plays host to Boston U. (1-1) on Friday night.

Wisconsin (3-0) and Northwestern (3-0), only unbeaten Big Tenners have a couple of toughies.

The Badgers face Michigan (1-2) while Northwestern meets Pitt (0-3). The Panthers aren't as bad as their record indicates. They gave Rice quite a game before losing, 14 to 7, last week.

Other undefeated clubs to see action:

Princeton (3-0) at Brown (1-2); Lehigh (4-0) at Dartmouth (0-2-1); St. Bonaventure (4-0) at Duquesne (0-3-1); NYU (1-0-1) at Rutgers (1-2); and Georgia (2-0-2) at LSU (1-3).

Washington Wins Fourth

Presidents Top Beaver Falls 26-0

George Washington junior high school swept to its fourth straight win of the season Thursday afternoon at Washington field as the Little Presidents downed Beaver Falls 26-0.

Excellent line play, with Paul Caimino and Jim Campbell standing out, helped the North Hillers to win over the big Beaver Falls team.

Dal Matthews scored, the first Washington touchdown when he intercepted a pass early in the first period and raced 45 yards for the score.

Caimino Scores On Pass

In the second period after taking a punt and being penalized back to their own 12-yard line, Joe Lane hit Caimino with a pass to the left that Caimino took on about the 25 and raced all the way for the second touchdown.

Midway in the third quarter Blaine Smith blocked a Falls kick and Francis Anastasia pounced on it on the 25-yard line. Lee Pears passed to Caimino, who lateralled to Lane, to take the ball down to the Beaver Falls one-yard line. Pears smashed over for the score and Dave Bongivengo sneaked over for the extra point to make it 19-0 in favor of Washington.

Washington scored its final touchdown in the fourth quarter when Jim Campbell recovered a fumble on the Beaver Falls 33-yard line. Lane and Pears took the ball down to the eight, from where Lane went around end for the score. Pears plunged for the extra point, Washington 26, Beaver Falls 0.

South Carolina Ties Clemson

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 20 — (INS)—Steve Wadiak of the University of South Carolina was hailed as one of the South's most underrates backs today for his starring role in the Gamecocks' 14-14 tie with Clemson.

Wadiak, a 190-pound junior from Chicago, scored both of Carolina's touchdowns—the first man to score a point on Clemson's Tigers this season.

Connie Mack Given Sportsman Plaque

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—Connie Mack, retired manager of the Athletics, received a plaque yesterday from Philadelphia's business, civic and sporting leaders for his service to sportsmanship.

He also received an $18,000 check to set up a perpetual scholarship at the University of Pennsylvania for underprivileged children.

Robinson Assured Of Return Match

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20—(INS)—Sugar Ray Robinson will receive a rematch within 60 days in the event he loses his Pennsylvania middleweight championship to Carl Bobo Olson next Thursday at Philadelphia Convention Hall.

Robinson's manager, George Gainford, insisted upon that agreement yesterday when Robinson and Olson met for a physical checkup at the state athletic commission offices.

There was no indication where such a rematch might be held, but promoter Al Karasick said he was interested in staging it in Honolulu.

MIAMI VS. BOSTON

MIAMI, Oct. 20 — (INS) — The unbeaten Miami hurricanes, conquerors of Purdue, return to the Orange Bowl tonight to play Boston University before an expected crowd of more than 45,000.

The Miamians are rated two-touchdowns favorites.

Two Teams Appear Evenly Matched For Tussle Here

New Castle high school Red Hurricane football team meets the Erie Academy Lions tonight at Taggart stadium in what should be one of the best games of the 1950 season. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The two teams appear to be evenly matched and against their common foe—Farrell—came out with almost identical scores. Both have won four games and lost two.

Good Ground Attacks

Both teams have picked up most of their yardage by way of the ground, though they have been effective through the air at times. Both teams also boast stubborn forward walls, which give yardage grudgingly.

Erie Academy probably has a little more speed in its backfield than New Castle, while the Red Hurricanes boast a slightly heavier line.

The visiting Lions will probably use a single and a double wing with perhaps a few T plays tossed in. In last week's game they used the single wing during the first half and the double wing during the second.

Watch Buddy Rowell

Buddy Rowell, classy Academy left half, is reported in excellent shape and may cause the Red Hurricanes a lot of trouble. Besides running and kicking, he is also one of Coach Hyde's ablest passers.

Hyde praised the performances of guards Bob Buzzard and Roy Andrews in the Erie East contest.

New Castle will line up almost the same as last week with the exception of Lee Richeal in place of Dante DeFalco at right tackle. DeFalco has been out of uniform all week with an injured finger, but may see some action tonight.

Ray Latsko may start at fullback in place of John Roussos, though Big Jawn will no doubt see lots of action.

Franklin Edges Butler Juniors

Patriots Come From Behind To Win 7-6

Benjamin Franklin junior high school came from behind Thursday afternoon at Butler to defeat the Butler junior high Little Tornados, 7-6.

The win was the third straight for the Patriots. Coach Bob Beynon's comment on the game was that Butler was tough.

Franklin fumbled on the third play from scrimmage in the game with Butler recovering on the 15-yard line. The Patriots held, but again lost possession of the ball on a fumble. This time, with the help of an off-side penalty, Butler scored to go ahead, 6-0.

Neither team got any place in the second quarter as they exchanged downs. Franklin started moving in the third quarter, with Harry Walker going 30 yards, Burelli hitting the line for nice gains and Jimmy Ray going over from 25 yards out. Franklin's extra point attempt was successful and the game ended, 7-6.

Titans Favored Over Grove City In Homecoming Game

Triple-Threat Bobby Sistek Leads Strategy

Capacity Crowd At New Wilmington

BOBBY SISTEK

A capacity crowd is expected to gather at Titan field tomorrow at two p. m. to witness the annual homecoming game between Westminster and Grove City.

The annual gridiron struggle comes this year as a highlight of autumn week-end activities expected to draw close to 500 returning alumni to the campus.

Coach Mel Hetzler will call on his triple-threat freshman star, Bob Sistek, to direct Titan strategy from the quarterback slot. Sistek, who has developed rapidly in early season games, has a record of better than 50 per cent in pass completions and has surpassed all opponents in the punting division. His deceptive running kept the Titans in the contest with Bethany last Saturday.

Titan Backs Speedy

A dry field will give the Titan backfield the offensive advantage in the contest. The Westminster backfield foursome depends upon swift opening plays and fast end sweeps for its ground attack.

Starting in the Titan backfield along with Sistek will be veteran letterman Paul Campbell at fullback, Carl Mantz and Larry Verone at halfback positions. Mantz, another outstanding freshman, has played consistently in the Titan backfield since the opening game of the season.

Seek Second Win

Missing from the starting lineup again this Saturday will be Co-Captain Dick Sylvester, who has been sidelined throughout the season with a torn ankle.

Westminster will enter the contest with a record of one win, one tie and two losses. Grove City will be looking for its first victory. The Grovers have lost to Geneva, Dickinson and Hiram in games played to date.

TWO-BITS WORTH

When Bill Stewart, long-time sports editor of the Superior, Wis., Evening Telegram, resigned to run a little paper of his own at Spooner, Wis., some of his friends gave him a farewell party. During the evening they all decided to call up their long-time friend, Ted Whereatt, who was head coach and athletic director at Superior State Teachers college many years before becoming head freshman football coach at I. U.

They all chipped in a quarter and each took a turn on the 30-minute call.

"Everyone got their two-bits worth in," reported Ted.

Elks Golfers Enjoy Banquet

Honor Mis-Fits As Champions

New Castle Elks golf league members, 81 strong, gathered in the club dining room Wednesday evening for their annual banquet and awarding of trophies and prizes. The men sat down at 6:30 o'clock to a delicious steak and trimmings dinner, and appetites were soon appeased after Austin Cowmeadow had offered the invocation.

It was a most successful ending to a happy year on the Castle Hills course. It was a typical Elks banquet with mirth and wit predominant. Never have the members enjoyed a more delightful evening of entertainment.

Joe Thompson Toastmaster

A recommended "must" for those with the blues is an evening where Joe Thompson is toastmaster. This "zany" gentleman had the boys rolling off their chairs with his opening travesty on "The Kinsey Report for Women", guaranteed to make a sphinx shriek.

Thompson introduced each speaker with a flourish of words that left the poor victim speechless (not intended).

Leroy Todd handled the presentation of awards and did a swell job. The runners-up—the Smashers, captained by Bill Waltenbaugh, got awards.

Champions Honored

The championship Mis-Fit team, captained by Wayne Harper, came in for a lion's share of the evening's cheers and a few ribs, and each member was presented with a lovely wallet and trophies. The losing team members were given lighters.

Trophies went to the following flight winners in the annual lague championship tournament: champion, Ezz Palmer; second flight, Wayne Harper; third flight, C. Donley; fourth flight, Ken Kelly.

Lloyd Harris Chairman

Toastmaster Thompson called on the following guests for a few remarks—Exalted Elks Ruler Tom Armstrong, Larry Gramling, manager at the Castle Hills course, and starter Stan Kibish.

Considerable credit for the fine banquet and evening's evening goes to Harold Brown, Elks Club manager, and to the golf committee for a grand job this season, headed by Chairman Lloyd Harris, Leroy Todd, Larry Gramling and Joe Thompson. Lending valuable assistance to the staging of the banquet was Joe Todd and Ralph Peterson.

The Elks golfers are eagerly looking forward to the 1951 league season on the Castle Hills links and another rip-sonrting banquet.

Michigan Needs Win Saturday

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—(INS)—The Big Ten's strongest candidate for the New Year's Day Rose Bowl contest is likely to come out of Saturday's football games.

Both Michigan and Illinois have a chance to become the first conference team to return to Pasadena, Cal., for the annual game. Each will undergo a test of power along with Wisconsin, Purdue and Indiana.

Western Conference regulations restrict a member to only one Rose Bowl appearance in three years, so Ohio State's high-geared aggregation and Northwestern's undefeated team are ineligible. The Buckeyes won the last Rose Bowl game and Northwestern was the victor in 1949.

Michigan is host to Wisconsin in what appears to be a knock-down, drag-out affair. The Wolverines have lost two of three non-conference games and have yet to play a Big Ten game. But Michigan is still regarded as a talented outfit.

Oddsmakers give the Wolverines a seven-point advantage over Wisconsin despite the Badgers' two conference victories and one non-league triumph in three games.

Ambridge Hosts To Ellwood City

Wolverines Can Spoil Bridgers Title Hopes

Ellwood City will take the road for the last time this season, when they travel to the valley to meet the undefeated Ambridge Bridgers.

The Wolverines stand to pull one of the biggest upets in the WPIAL by knocking off Ambridge.

Coach "Moe" Rubenstein's high-flying Bridgers, last week scored with less than a minute left to defeat Aliquippa. Their other games haven't even been close. They won from Erie Academy 18 to 6, from New Brighton 32 to 9, from Beaver Falls 40 to 0, and from mutual opponent Vandergrift 46 to 7. Ellwood was eliminated from WPIAL by Vandergrift when tied 13 to 13.

Carl Tammaro, poses as a chief threat to Ambridge's playoff aspirations and could be instrumental in repeating last year's Ellwood 20-12 victory. Tammaro has scored five of Ellwood's touchdowns and leads in pass interceptions.

Bell Invades Cement City

Lions Bringing 19-Game Win Streak

Bell township, on the Allegheny, above New Kensington, has built a football reputation comparable in high school circles to the Massillon Tigers of the middle 1930's.

Bessemer will entertain, on Saturday night, a team, unbeaten and untied for two and one half seasons.

The Bell Lions have run up 19 straight victories and have scored in games this year, 259 points to the opposition's 19.

Feature T Attacks

The Class B contenders feature an explosive T, centered around 175, WPIAL halfback, Kenny Kellar, who leads the team in total offense.

The Lions scarlet and black, is coached by George Hamilton and assisted by Eddie Meigham, former teammate of Willie Ciccone at West Virginia Weselyan.

Ciccone is having his troubles at Bessemer. Mooney Schaville is probably the hardest running back in the county Class B circuit.

JUST A RESERVE

Indiana guard Danny Thomas, a Marine veteran of World War II recently was asked whether he was a member of the Reserve.

Before he had a chance to answer, center Jack Dolan broke in. "Is he in the reserve?" said Dolan. "I'll say he is is! He was in the reserve all last Saturday afternoon."

(Thomas really keeps quite busy Saturday afternoons.)

Hillbilly Hot-Shot

DRESSING the part as the "shoeless hillbilly from West Virginia," Slammin' Sam Snead plays golf at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., garbed in hillbilly togs and sans shoes. Sam is vacationing between tourneys. (International)

LIKES COURAGE

Not all mistakes on the gridiron strike Indiana coach Clyde Smith as all wrong. One such was committed by sophomore quarterback Ray Petrauskas, who, playing safety, fielded a punt on Indiana's two-yard line and returned it to the 12. There was little doubt that it would not have rolled into the end zone for a touchback.

"It may not have been the best thing to do," said Smith, reviewing the play, "but I liked his courage. There wasn't any doubt in his mind that he couldn't catch it and go."

New York Stocks

Stock Market Is Irregular

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(INS)—The stock market continued to adhere to an irregular price pattern today. Fluctuations were generally held to fractions.

Minor price changes were the rule among the old-line market favorites. American Telephone was off ⅛ at 151⅝, U. S. Steel unchanged at 41⅝, Bethlehem Steel up ⅛ at 45⅞, General Motors off ⅛ at 51¾, DuPont up ⅜ at 81¼ and Chrysler unchanged at 79⅛.

Atlantic Refining rose ½ point ot 62⅞ in the oils on a favorable nine months earning report. Standard of New Jersey was off ¼ at 86 and Socony-Vacuum was down ⅛ at 24⅝.

Rails were spotty. Southern Railway was a soft spot, declining 1⅜ points to 44. Atchison was off ¼ at 135, and Union Pacific was unchanged at 96.

The bond market held narrowly with activity centered in the rails.

Push Probe Of Rackets In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Federal grand jurors probing Philadelphia rackets today were expected to review the first malfeasance trial of former Chief Magisfrate John J. O'Malley.

The jury has received records containing most of the testimony given by Detective Lt. Clarence Ferguson, former vice squad aide, at the trial.

Ferguson testified at the trial that on one or more occasions he asked O'Malley to let gambling defendants off with light fines.

Subpenas were reportedly being prepared for a "large number" of Chester county gamblers and political leaders because of testimony by John H. Hoffman, of Kennett Square.

Hoffman is counsel for Louise Higgins, a Kennett Square machine company employe charged with embezzling $42,900 of the firm's funds to pay off bookies.

The attorney told reporters that several gambling places are "only a stone's throw, or at most a couple of blocks, from the home of State Sen. George B. Scarlett, Republican leader of Chester County.

Scarlett later vehemently denied any connection with gambling in Chester county. "Hoffman is chairman of the Republicans for Dilworth here," he commented.

Honor Memory Of Lieut. Allshouse Who Died In France

Mrs. Betty Allshouse of 420 Waldo street has received a letter from Col. R. T. Beurket, commander at the Western Chemical Center at Tooele, Utah, stating that the memory of her late husband, Lt. Dennis A. Allshouse, who was killed in action while serving with a chemical warfare unit of the United States Army in France in World War II, will be perpetuated at Tooele military reservation.

In his honor a road has been named, "Allshouse Road", and will be carried on the official records of the Department of the Army for all time as such.

The letter follows:

"Mrs. Betty Allshouse,
420 Waldo Street,
New Castle.

Dear Mrs. Allshouse:

I am grateful for the opportunity to advise you that as a lasting and living tribute to your husband, Dennis A. Allshouse, who gave his life for his country during the recent world war, it has been decided to name one of the roads on this military reservation in his memory. The road named in honor of your husband will be known as ALLSHOUSE ROAD, and will for all time be carried as such on the official records of the Department of the Army.

"Although this honor is in itself small compensation for the loss suffered, it expresses the gratitude of the Chemical Corps of the Army and of the entire nation to one of the members of the armed forces who made the supreme sacrifice to maintain and preserve our democratic form of government.

Very sincerely,
R. T. BEURKET,
Col. Cml. C.,
Commanding."
